CITY COUNCIL FIXES RATES FOR RELIEF WORK

MacDonald Wants "Doctor's Mandate" For Britain British Parliament Wednesday to Learn When Session to End

Premier MacDonald on That Day to Make Statement on Plans; Friends Say He Will Step Aside If General Election Becomes Necessary This Fall

Canadian Press
London, Sept. 28.—Premier MacDonald today informed the House of Commons he hoped to be able to announce Wednesday when the present special session of Parliament would be brought to a close.

His statement put an end to rumors he would announce today an immediate general election. Mr. MacDonald was represented by close friends today as having come to the decision he would step aside in the event a general election should become necessary this fall.

He intends to carry on as head of the National Government, it was said, and if the non-partisan project does not draw support from all parties he will refuse to lend his leadership to any one section or party in an appeal to the people.

"DOCTOR'S MANDATE"
He was said to have demanded a free hand in striving for national unity to lift Great Britain through its financial difficulties, or a "doctor's mandate" for maintaining the National Government. He does not propose to be dominated by any one political party, it was said, and again asserts his leadership of the nation.

By a "doctor's mandate," a person loses to the Prime Minister said, Mr. MacDonald means he wants to ignore the country's ills in consultation with the cabinet and to apply the necessary remedies. If there is to be a general election, this friend said, Mr. MacDonald does not want to go (Concluded on Page 2)

British Selling Sterling Told They Take Risk
London, Sept. 28.—Persons who sell sterling "well below its intrinsic value" incur serious risk, Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said in the Commons today in answer to a question as to what the government was doing to prevent foreign speculation in sterling.

"The remedy will come quickly enough when they begin to make mistakes," he said. "In the meantime it is essential speculation should not be assisted by allowing foreigners or their nominees to obtain new sterling credits in this country. In this connection I welcome the decision of the Bank Exchange committee to limit transactions to cash dealings."

Copenhagen, Denmark, Sept. 28.—The Danish cabinet met today to consider the problem of the gold standard, but no decision was reached. Premier Stauning said he was awaiting a report from the National Bank of Denmark.

Canadian Press
New York, Sept. 28.—The Canadian dollar was quoted at 89½ cents on the local foreign exchange market as the banks closed today. New York, Sept. 28.—After showing pronounced weakness at the opening, the Canadian dollar firmed fractionally at noon on the local foreign exchange market. Traders quoted it at a nominal value of 89½ cents, which figure represented a discount rate of 10½ per cent.

The noon quotation was encouraging in comparison with the opening figures of 89 to 89½, which saw the dollar touch a new low mark in recent years.

On Saturday it closed at 91½ after a week of unusual weakness.

The picture of Miss Frances Beeson of Riverside, California, was taken as she was reading a message from the fliers, whose Japan-Seattle non-stop attempt failed when they were forced down on the island of Navarin, off the coast of northeastern Siberia.

Bandits In Vancouver Beat Dairy Cashier and Get Away With $1,000

Company Man Fights Desperately, But Is Seriously Injured and Robbers Escape in His Auto

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 28.—Three bandits escape with $1,000 in cash and $200 in cheques this afternoon after beating down Richard H. Elbow, cashier of the Associated Dairies, Keefe street, as the latter was leaving the plant to make a bank deposit.

Elbow put up a desperate fight against his armed assailants, but was so badly injured by revolver butts and barrels that he had to be taken to a hospital for treatment. He is suffering from lacerations of the head and face. His attackers escaped in Elbow's car.

SHOUTS NOT HEARD
The three men, aged between twenty and twenty-five, sprang at the cashier as he was stepping into his car and grasped at the money satchel. Ignoring the threat of a revolver Elbow swung at his assailants, who brought their guns into play as clubs. Elbow called for help, but the noise of the plant machinery prevented anyone from hearing him. Finally, when he was practically unconscious, the trio tore the satchel from him and escaped in his car. Elbow crawled into the dairy and gasped out his story.

DIAMONDS TAKEN BY ROBBERS
Oakland, Cal., Sept. 28.—Two men held up the Diamond Jewelry Company at 1750 Broadway here today and escaped with diamonds valued by the owners at $25,000 to $50,000.

The results were interpreted as an indication of growing dissatisfaction with the rule of Chancellor Brüning and a warning he must turn his attention from problems of foreign relations to domestic politics.

GOVERNMENT PAY FORFEIT PLAN SCORED

Civil Service Ranks Said to Be in State of Ferment Over Ballot

Government Wants Cut to Help Itself Out of Difficulty; Sliding Scale Preferable

Responsibility for the ballot being circulated throughout the civil service of British Columbia asking the government workers if they are prepared to return one day's pay a month to the government to aid it through its trying time is the source of considerable discussion, tinged with some bitterness, at the Parliament Buildings.

FEARED DISCRIMINATION
The ballot is the bristling subject of conversation among government workers and the method of taking it has brought stinging criticism. A fair ballot, many of the workers claim, would not have placed them in the position where it would become public knowledge which way they voted. Many voted to surrender the day's pay because they thought they would be singled out if they voted otherwise. Criticism is also voiced against the ballot on the grounds that it does not work fairly. Higher salaried men would make a greater contribution it is admitted but the sacrifice of four or five dollars each month would be serious to the low-salaried man. Civil servants work 286 days a year, including all holidays, and figured on this basis one day's pay of the chairman of the Liquor Board, who draws $15,000 a year, amounts to $52.

"The move appears to some to have more in it than is seen by the public," the idea originated in the minds of certain servants who are in receipt of salaries that enable their legitimate expenses to be met without any anxiety or skimping, and who would like to see the administration of the onus of making a cut in salaries when an election is not far distant, says one civil servant. "In return, they hope that the grateful government will refrain from instituting cuts in salary on a sliding scale, whereby the $5,000 man would lose considerably more than a day's pay, while the recipient of less than $1,000 a year might be let off without any reduction."

"The rank-and-file are able to grasp the fact that a deduction of a day's pay presses unduly hard upon an employee getting $100 a month, from (Concluded on Page 2)

Council Tells Police Board to Provide For Automatic Signs Next Year

Victoria will not get automatic traffic control signals until the beginning of next year at the earliest. The City Council decided this to-day when they recommended to the Board of Police Commissioners that the expenditure of $2,000 for the signals be considered with next year's estimates. The commission wanted the signals installed as part of the relief work this fall, but the council did not accept this point of view and Alderman W. T. Straith explained it was necessary for such improvements to be provided for in estimates. The council agreed unanimously.

Governments of Norway and Sweden Prohibit Exportation of Yellow Metal

Danish Cabinet Is Considering Similar Action to Meet Financial Stress

London, Sept. 28.—Sweden and Norway to-day followed Great Britain by seven days in suspending the gold standard and prohibiting exportation of gold. The Danish cabinet is considering the same action.

Dispatches from Stockholm and Oslo said the two governments had decided temporarily to abandon payments in gold because of the affliction of the krona and the krone with the pound sterling and the close connection of their finances with those of Great Britain.

The Swedish State Council decided to drop the gold standard until November 30 unless conditions should change before that date and to increase the National Bank discount rate from six per cent to eight per cent. Exportation of gold was prohibited except by the Riksbank or by foreign national banks.

TO BUY MORE GOODS
Minister of Finance Felix Hamrin said Sweden would restore the gold standard as soon as financial affairs permitted and that the suspension not be regarded as a sign of weakness in the treasury. The people must buy more Swedish goods in order to improve the regular city rate of wages. (Concluded on Page 2)

KINGSFORD-SMITH IS AT KARACHI, TO-DAY

Karachi, India, Sept. 28.—Wing-Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, en route to England in an attempt to lower the flight record from Australia, landed here before noon to-day and prepared to take off at once for Jask, Persia. He was eighteen hours behind his schedule for the journey of more than 2,000 miles and was showing the effects of four days of almost continuous flying since leaving Wyndham last Thursday.

INFORMATION LACKING
The Mayor explained he had not been informed definitely whether the governments would make any contribution to the cost of materials, or what rate of interest the city would be asked to pay on money borrowed from the federal government to undertake its end of the scheme. As far as he knew the labor costs would be paid 50 per cent by the Dominion government, 25 per cent by the provincial government and 25 per cent by the city. The question of work to be given was left to the council.

Alderman H. O. Litchfield immediately raised a question regarding the work done during the summer. He asked if the city had any agreement with the government for this work. "No," said the mayor. "Does the city have to assume the full cost?" asked the alderman. (Concluded on Page 2)

Discoverer of Dinosaur Eggs Has Exploratory Work Stopped By Group in Peiping

Says Society for Preservation of Ancient Objects Is Anti-foreign Body

Disgusted with the treatment meted out to him in China in his efforts to organize his sixth expedition to the Gobi Desert to solve the question of human evolution, Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, vice-director of exploration and research for the American Museum of Natural History, returned from the Orient on Sunday by the liner Empress of Japan.

He roundly denounced what he termed the nefarious activities of the Society for the Preservation of Ancient Objects in Peiping, which he claims is a straight anti-foreign organization, supported by the authorities at Nanking. UNPRECEDENTED ATTITUDE
"I have been in China for six months trying to arrange for an expedition next year into the Gobi desert and have got nowhere," Dr. Andrews said in his most forceful manner when interviewed by The Times representative. "I am disgusted with everything." "This society has adopted an unreasonable attitude that is unprecedented in the world. Since its formation (Concluded on Page 2)

Married men will be employed on relief work in Victoria this winter on a five-day week basis, with the general laborers receiving $3 a day.

This schedule was decided upon by the City Council at a special meeting this morning when the relief scheme in force during the summer was abandoned and the new one adopted. It will go into force to-morrow. While all of the 600 men now on the relief lists will not be employed immediately they will be absorbed as soon as the new work can be put in operation.

The new relief scheme will have the effect of a general rise in the sustenance allowance for the married men. Those who have been employed three days a week at $4 a day will receive five days' work at $3, giving an average monthly allowance of $60.

WORK DECIDED
The council voted for an immediate start on approximately half of its relief programme approved by the government. This amounts to $149,200, and involves $44,000 for work unfinished under the former scheme, $73,200 for macadam roads and $22,000 for surface drainage.

owing to lack of knowledge as to whether any aid would be available from the Dominion government on the cost of materials, the question of water main construction was delayed for a time, although it was decided to call tenders for the supplying of the piping necessary for such work.

SCALE OF RATES
The sustenance scale adopted by Victoria is slightly higher than in some municipalities, the minimum of $3.00 a day applying to laborers, acemen, funksies, bricklayers, blacksmiths, helpers and shovel helpers. Teamsters will get $3.20 a day and pipelayers $3.25 a day. At $3.50 a day are fellers, truckers, carpenters, general men, heavy truck drivers, tractor drivers, gas donkey operators and powder men get $3.75 a day. Foreman and other expert workers get the regular city rate of wages.

Criticism of the failure of both Dominion and provincial governments to supply full information regarding relief was voiced at the meeting this morning by Alderman R. A. C. Dewar, who said he was "disgusted" with the progress made so far.

This followed Mayor Anson's explanation of a letter from Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works stating that the government had approved $300,000 out of the $500,000 programme of the city, and that relief work now being carried on must cease immediately.

INFORMATION LACKING
The Mayor explained he had not been informed definitely whether the governments would make any contribution to the cost of materials, or what rate of interest the city would be asked to pay on money borrowed from the federal government to undertake its end of the scheme. Factions Negotiate At India Conference

Premier MacDonald Calls on Hindus and Moslems to Compose Differences

Canadian Press
London, Sept. 28.—India's Hindus and Moslems will have to settle their own communal problems, for the government of Great Britain is not going to act as an arbitrator. Premier MacDonald told members of the Round-table Conference on minorities committee to-day.

"I have been the scapegoat too often in my life," he said, "and while I am willing to do it again if necessary, I think that in this respect you should be your own scapegoats and take the responsibility for solution of this very difficult problem."

At this suggestion the committee adjourned until Thursday and in the meantime there will be unofficial negotiations between Mahatma Gandhi and the Aga Khan, representing the two factions, beginning to-night when Gandhi's period of silence ends.

TOO MUCH EMPHASIS
Before the adjournment Dr. B. R. Ambedkar, an "untouchable," asserted too much emphasis was being placed on the Hindu-Moslem problem and that India's other minorities were not likely to accept any solution made at their expense. Mr. MacDonald advised the minorities committee to use the next two days for private conversations.

The minorities committee will attempt to settle centuries-old differences among Moslems, Hindus, Sikhs and other religious groups.

The committee, of which Mr. MacDonald is chairman, has before it the conference's work and its task may be the rock on which the entire Indian federation structure will be built or wrecked.

ANDREWS HALTED AT PASS TO GOBI

In 1927 it has not been responsible for anything constructive. We are expected to put up all the money, do all the work and then leave all we find in their hands. Our work is being obstructed because the machinations of this nefarious society in China. On our last expedition into the Gobi desert we discovered the geological strata in which primitive man would be found, and such an alternative would involve important work on human evolution."

The Chinese do not control the region where the expedition has been since 1922, explained Dr. Andrews, but they do control the "neck of the bottle." The only other route into the Gobi desert, he explained, would be through Russia, and such an alternative would involve the shifting of the base of the expedition. Discoveries of the greatest importance to science have been made by the five Gobi expeditions of the present series, which have been financed by the American Museum of Natural History, with Dr. Andrews in charge of field operations.

PLANS FOR CONTRACTS
Their conference with Chancellor Brüning and Foreign Minister Curtius was understood to revolve around the question as to whether Franco-German economic co-operation was possible on a large scale by the financing of Germany's surplus labor with France's surplus capital.

One suggestion advanced was to award bridge building and other structural contracts in French colonies to German concerns. Another suggestion was to provide French credits for specific German concerns, chiefly on a business base. The industries mentioned chiefly were coal, iron, electrical and chemical.

NO DISPLAY
The French statesmen's visit to the President was devoid of military pomp or display. Their black line uniforms swiftly entered the gate of the executive mansion and drew up to the portico, where two steel-helmed youths in the Reichswehr uniform snapped to attention.

Ambassador Francois - Poncelet emerged from the car, followed by M. Laval and M. Briand, and they entered the palace at once. They reappeared twenty minutes later, posed briefly for photographers and motored away past a silent crowd which lifted its hats in greeting.

The Canadian dollar established its low record on the United States foreign exchange market in 1929, when it dropped to a value of 83 cents, a discount of 17 per cent.

The present downward trend of the Canadian dollar started September 11, when the discount rate was quoted at 15-16 of 1 per cent, considerably more than it had been for more than a year.

On September 16, the day before the British Government announced its temporary suspension of the gold standard, the Canadian dollar was quoted at a discount of 2 1/2 per cent. On the Monday following the announcement by the British Government it dropped to 98 cents, a discount of 7 per cent.

Discuss Sound Fishing
Dispute

Special to The Times
Port Alberni, Sept. 28.—To settle the strike of chum salmon fishermen, T. Matsuyama of Vancouver, one of the chief exporters of salt fish to Japan, is expected to arrive here this afternoon. Mr. Matsuyama was sent for by the Japanese operators of the saltieries on Barkley Sound, following rejection by the white fishermen of an offer of 8 cents per fish for chum salmon. The strike has been called by the fishermen to secure an increase to 10 cents per fish, the price originally offered by the saltieries having been 5 cents.

A meeting of leading citizens of Port Alberni and a number of striking white fishermen was held on Saturday morning in the office of L. Arnold Hanna, M.P.P., A. W. Neill, M.P., was present and offered to telegraph Hon. A. N. Rhodes, federal Minister of Fisheries, to seek his intervention in the dispute.

The meeting proposed to be held over the week-end was cancelled in order to give time for the negotiations with Ottawa and with Mr. Matsuyama to be continued.

Flee in Panic

Abbotsford, B.C., Sept. 28.—Burglars were unsuccessful in an attempt to rob the Canadian Bank of Commerce Branch here early Sunday morning, when they were apparently disturbed by some person between 3 and 5 a.m., and left only a jimmy and a drill behind.

No trace of the burglars had been found to-day. It was known the thieves made their escape in a car, but no description was obtained.

The robbers took the mattress, blanket and sheet from the bed of the teller and wrapped them around the door of the safe, then blew the outer door off. Having gained entry to the time lock, they tried to drill through with a hand drill, which apparently became heated. After making a hole, they tried to blow the time lock, but only succeeded in breaking some of the casing.

It was at that time they apparently became panicky and left.

into the campaign pledged in advance to right under the Conservative party's tariff banner.

It was interpreted as an answer to Conservative members who have been boomerang by the man to carry the fight to the country on a protective tariff issue. It was apparent party leaders had not reached an agreement as to the necessity of an early election, although Conservative ranks are strongly in favor.

Mr. MacDonald spent the week-end at Chequers, conferring with friends in all parties on the election matter and other problems, and was back at his desk in Downing Street this morning with renewed vigor for his task.

FEELING OUT GROUND

London, Sept. 28.—Candidates are sounding the first notes of the election campaign. Britain is to have, though it is not known yet whether there is to be polling before 1932. They took advantage of the week-end Parliamentary lull to feel out the ground.

It was a week-end of conferences and speechmaking.

The press and politicians continue divided over the merits of an early election. Sir Donald Maclean, Liberal freetrader, who is president of the Board of Education, declared any election would be a "national madness." Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, a Cabinet colleague, declared a general election was inevitable.

Mr. MacDonald said the people "have only just settled down to the fact of National Government, a special creation of the King, and now in five minutes, so to speak, there is to be an election. Consider the first probable effect on prices. There are not in much danger so long as the government watchdogs are on duty. Technically the government will be in existence during the period of a general election, but actually the individuals who constitute it will be scattered about the country making speeches at each other, with no time to discharge their official duties. Who is to safeguard against profiteers during those weeks of turmoil before the new government settles down to work?"

TARIFF QUESTION
Those newspaper opposing an immediate election call it a conspiracy "to force tariffs on the country" and urge prove the balance of trade, he said, and the government would immediately discuss matters to that end.

GOLD RESERVE REDUCED
The commissioners of the Riksbank of Sweden for gold after Great Britain's action and that foreign currency and the Riksbank's gold reserve had been reduced last week by 100,000,000 krona ($25,000,000), while hope of obtaining foreign credit sufficient to assure the supply of foreign currency had not been fulfilled.

NORWAY'S POSITION

Norway's withdrawal from the gold standard and placing of an embargo on gold exports were decreed for an indefinite period by the cabinet. The discount rate of the Bank of Norway was raised from five per cent to eight per cent.

At the same time the central banks of Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Finland announced they had decided on joint measures to maintain the parity of their respective currencies while the suspension was in effect.

The two countries' move was interpreted in financial circles as an act of caution rather than of need.

MOVE APPROVED

Olo, Norway, Sept. 28.—The decision that the currencies of Sweden and Norway should follow the pound sterling off the gold standard to-day, especially among ship owners and exporters.

The greater part of the Norwegian Mercantile Marine is fixed on a time charter basis, with payments in sterling, a decline in which would reduce the present profits to direct losses. The same applies to the sulphite and paper industries.

NO FINISH MOVE

Helsinki, Finland, Sept. 28.—The Finnish Riksbank declared to-day it had no intention of following the example of Sweden and Norway in suspending the gold standard.

"I would not say that," the mayor replied. "But our other agreement ran out at the end of June and the other work has not been decided."

IN GOVERNMENT HANDS
"We are absolutely in the hands of the government," said Alderman W. T. Straith.

Alderman Dewar then attacked the governments for their lack of notification.

"I'm disgusted with the progress they have made," he said. "They have known for a long time of this problem and they have been working on it, but still we don't know actually what we will get. We really have no written assurance that we will pay only twenty-five per cent of the labor cost."

He claimed it was a wrong principle to make the council set the maintenance rates.

Alderman Litchfield's motion for a five-day week was carried unanimously.

MORE THAN SAANICH

When the maintenance question came up Alderman R. T. Williams spoke in favor of paying a higher rate than in Saanich because, he said, it was cheaper for a laborer to live in Saanich than in the city. Saanich is paying $2 a day, plus 80 cents for the wife and so much for each child.

The $3 a day minimum was also carried unanimously when moved by Alderman Litchfield. The other were fixed on a sliding scale conforming with the government's schedule.

As a recommendation of P. M. Preston, city engineer, it was decided to go ahead with the work mentioned above. There had been a suggestion, Alderman Straith said, that the government might give a contribution toward material costs where it did not exceed 35 per cent of the total cost of work and for this reason the sewer, drains and roadwork were adopted, having the smaller proportion of material costs.

In regard to the water main proposals which involve a larger expenditure, Mr. Preston pointed out it would take nearly two months to procure the material necessary for the making of pipes and that if this was to be done it should be decided soon. Letters from the Victoria Machinery Depot and a Vancouver engineering firm were read with reference to this. The Victoria firm explaining it would install new apparatus to handle the construction of pipes if the order was secured. It was then decided to call tenders for the purchase of the pipe.

The council also had before it the proposal of the school board regarding the contribution by teachers of a portion of their salary toward relief work for a period of four months amounting to about $5,000 in all. The principle of this was adopted and the plan will be worked out with the council.

Why pay one-third more cash for 30 per cent less heat? Why send money out of B.C. when it is an actual saving to buy the home product? Insist on Vancouver Island Coal. MINERS SEEK TO EXTEND STRIKE

Glouce Bay, N.S., Sept. 28.—Possibility of strike of 900 miners at the Florence Colliery may grow into a general walk-out affecting 12,000 men throughout United Mine Workers' District 26 as emphasized to-day as a result of committees from the Florence local having addressed special meetings of other local unions in the district.

Yesterday evening at Florence they reported back to their striking fellow-miners that other locals were "with them to a man" in their demand that Matthew Smith, overman in the Florence Colliery, should be removed before work is resumed. This afternoon the strikers will meet to decide what further steps to take.

Smith was tried Saturday before

Judge Walter Crowe in Sydney on a charge of removing the tailies of the miners from certain boxes of coal and replacing them with company tailies, depriving the men of payment. Decision was to be handed down to-day.

Toronto, Sept. 28.—Ministers and laymen to the number of 2,500 have registered for the missionary congress of the United Church of Canada, to be held here October 1 and 2. Premier Bennett is scheduled to speak at one session.

NEW AID FOR LIVESTOCK MEN OF PRARIES

Federal Minister of Agriculture Makes Announcement After Calgary Conference

Calgary, Sept. 28.—A three-fold plan to aid prairie livestock breeders was announced here this morning by Hon. R. Weir, federal minister of agriculture, just prior to his departure for Regina along with Senator Gideon Robertson, Dominion Minister of Labor. The announcement came at the conclusion of a series of conferences between Senator Robertson, Mr. Weir, Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture in the Ontario government, and three Alberta cabinet members—Premier J. E. Brownlee, Hon. O. L. McPherson, Minister of Highways and Public Works, and Hon. George Roadley, Minister of Agriculture. Intimation was also given that the date for completion of unemployment relief projects, set as May 1, would be extended by the federal government.

Mr. Weir detailed the livestock proposals. The first phase of the plan was to help farmers and ranchers in dried out districts to send their cattle to farms in the east, 50 per cent of the freight cost being assumed by the federal government. Secondly, a similar percentage of freight costs, he said, would be assumed by the government in shipping of the finished cattle from the feeder farms in the east to the seaboard. Thirdly, the Ontario government was conducting negotiations whereby it would secure from western Canada a shipment of 2,500 feeder steers for distribution among the junior farm clubs of Ontario.

ONTARIO GROCER KILLS DEBTOR AND HIS WIFE

Tells Police He Is Sorry He Has No Bullet For Himself

St. Catharines, Ont., Sept. 28.—While a group of fifty people looked on, Nick Kozub, forty-eight, walked out of his store in the town of Thorold Saturday and shot to death Peter Holouchuk, forty-six, and his wife, Mary, thirty-six. He was immediately taken into custody by a constable who saw the shooting. He was powerless to prevent it. In police court on a charge of murder Kozub was remanded for a week.

A dispute which arose out of Holouchuk's failure to pay a grocery bill was the cause of the double shooting. Kozub is said to have told police, "The two men spent a long time early Saturday arguing over the bill. Then Holouchuk left the store, and, according to Kozub, addressed epithets to him from the street. Kozub took a gun, walked out of the door and shot him. Then he went next door to Holouchuk's house, saw his wife in the yard, and shot her through the heart, according to the story he told police.

"I am sorry I did not have another bullet for myself," he is alleged to have said after the shooting.

Washington, Sept. 28.—The public, by failure to spend its money, is blamed by Walter S. Gifford for much of the unemployed distress. Consumer buying, the man entrusted by President Hoover with caring for the suffering of the jobless believes, must precede solution of the problem. "If the public buys neither work nor goods, it is the public that is indirectly discharging men," he said. The estimate of the number of unemployed in the United States was 6,000,000, he stated.

Toronto, Sept. 28.—While policemen silently looked on, the Canadian Labor Defence League held a meeting yesterday for the purpose of organizing the laboring classes in order to raise funds for defence of the nine Communist leaders recently arrested here and elsewhere on charges of being members of an unlawful assembly.

"The name of Windsor is stained from coast to coast and we are derided as a beer-drinking, bootlegging city," he said.

THOMAS DECLARES BRITAIN SOON TO HAVE ELECTION

Derby, Eng., Sept. 28.—Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Colonies, in a speech here yesterday declared Britain "ought to be able to use the full and in a common-sense way the great potentialities contained within the British Empire."

Mr. Thomas said a general election was inevitable and could not be long delayed.

"It may be necessary—and I don't run away from it—to have a change in the fiscal system," said Mr. Thomas. "When our trade balance is in its present position it is a danger signal which must be faced. I will face it even if it included tariffs, but I want that to be a bargaining lever—not to be used with a view to bolstering up inefficiency and benefiting the profiteers and ignoring the sufferers."

Particular interest attached to Mr. Thomas's speech in view of the apparent imminence of a general election.

APPOINTMENTS TO BE MADE AT OTTAWA SOON

Ottawa, Sept. 28.—Interest in government circles is directed toward the growing list of vacancies which Premier Bennett and his ministerial colleagues have before them. A finance minister and a deputy minister of the same department, a tariff board, in all probability a royal commission to go into the railway situation, a lieutenant-governor for Nova Scotia—these are some of the appointments the government is expected to make before long.

Senate and judicial vacancies also exist, and there are a number of important posts in the civil service opening up as higher officials retire for a rest after their labors.

Smuts Declares Great Britain Will Regain Prosperity

York, Eng., Sept. 28.—General Jan Christian Smuts, distinguished South African statesman and soldier, who is presiding over the centenary meeting of the British Association, brought a message of ringing encouragement to the British nation when he received the freedom of York Saturday.

Recent changes were largely due to the honesty and integrity of the British people, who had become saddled with burdens while most of their competitors had in one way or another repudiated their post-war liabilities, General Smuts said. "The breaking point has come and it is good it should come," he said.

But if the country did not want to get on the slippery slope of inflation, with the pound sterling following the post-war mark of Germany, it must not let the process of anti-inflation go too far. "You are in a struggle as grave as any in your existence," he concluded, "but I would back you to my bottom dollar. This nation is going to pull through."

Many Needy Are Now Returning Canada to Europe

Toronto, Sept. 28.—According to a special dispatch from Montreal to The Toronto Mail and Empire, inquiry among the consuls of a number of European countries whose nationals are largely involved shows a steady stream of unfortunate men is flowing back to Europe. Nearly all are said to be returning home under agreements with the steamship companies that brought them to Canada, or at the partial or total expense of their own governments.

"Although it is difficult to secure complete figures," the dispatch said, "it is almost certain that for a short time past aliens have been leaving Canada at a rate of between 500 and 1,000 per month."

CAMP SCHEME IS OPPOSED

Vancouver, Sept. 28.—Establishment of an unemployed camp for men unable to work, giving shelter to 800 men, is opposed by Reeve W. A. Fritchard of Burnaby on the grounds it would constitute a health menace to the municipality.

"While not opposing the government in this project, it means additional safeguards will have to be put into effect," he said. "I certainly do not want it in the residential section, where children are going to school. However, I have instructed the chief of police to take up his part with the Attorney-General at Victoria, and the medical health officer of the municipality to get in touch with the provincial health authorities," he said. "Outside of that, I have no further information."

Ontario Farmers Make Proposals

Toronto, Sept. 28.—Conscription of surplus wealth was one of the proposals advanced as a means of coping with the economic crisis at a meeting here of the United Farmers of Ontario. action were other suggestions put forward. A programme of social reconstruction was drawn up and is being circulated throughout the rural parts of the province for the consideration of all interested.

MR. KEYNES VINDICATED

IF THAT INTERNATIONALLY-KNOWN British economist and authority on money and monetary reform, Mr. J. M. Keynes, is saying "I told you so" at the present time, it is scarcely to be wondered at. When Britain returned to the gold standard in 1925 he attacked the policy with all the force at his command. His warning went unheeded. Now he is pleased and discusses the probable effect of the change. We quote him in part:

In many lines of trade, the British manufacturer to-day must be the cheapest producer in the world in terms of gold. On these will fall the curse of deflation. We gain these advantages without a cut in wages, without industrial strife. We gain them in a way which is strictly fair to every section of the community, without any serious effects on the cost of living.

For less than a quarter of our total consumption is represented by imports. So that sterling would have depreciated by much more than 25 per cent before one could expect the cost of living to rise by as much as 10 per cent. This would cause serious hardship for no one, for it would only put things back where they were two years ago.

Meanwhile there will be a great stimulus to employment.

Mr. Keynes predicts that a large part of the world will follow Britain's example and reduce the former gold value of its money. He says he will be astonished if Germany delays action very long. As far as Britain is concerned he thinks her plight, as a result of deflation of prices, will be far less serious than that of most countries; all will gain benefits of higher prices. But none will secure a competitive advantage at the expense of the others. Then he proceeds:

Thus the competitive disadvantage will be concentrated on those few countries which remain on the gold standard. On these will fall the curse of deflation. As the result of their unwillingness to exchange their exports except for gold, their export trade will dry up and disappear, until they no longer have either a favorable trade balance or foreign deposit to repatriate.

This means, in the main, France and the United States. Their loss of export trade will be an inevitable predictable outcome of their own action. These countries, largely for reasons resulting from the war and war settlements, are owed much money by the rest of the world.

They erect tariff barriers which prevent payment of these sums in goods. They are unwilling to lend the money they are owed. They have already taken nearly all the available surplus gold of the world.

There remained, in logic, only one way by which the rest of the world could maintain its solvency and self-respect, namely, to cease purchasing these countries' exports.

At this point Mr. Keynes explains that so long as the gold standard is preserved—which means that prices of international commodities must be much the same everywhere—this involved a competitive campaign of deflation, "each of us trying to get our prices down faster than others"; a campaign which had intensified unemployment and business losses to an unendurable pitch. "But," we read further, "as soon as the gold exchange is ruptured, the problem is solved. For appreciation of French and American money in terms of the money of other countries makes it impossible for French and American exporters to sell their goods. The recent policy of these countries could not, if it was persistently pursued, end any other way. They have willed the destruction of their own export industries and only they can take the steps necessary to restore them. The appreciation of their currencies must also embarrass gravely their banking systems."

The concluding note in Mr. Keynes' article is an expression of his belief that the great events of the last week may open a new chapter in the world's monetary history. He advises an intimate and candid conference, for he warns that the solution to which Britain has been driven, though it gives immediate relief to her and transfers the strain to others, is in truth a solution unsatisfactory for everyone. He drives the final point home that "the world will never be prosperous without a trade recovery in the United States." In this, of course, Canada is vitally interested.

MR. F. D. LITTLE

FEW MEN HAVE PLAYED A MORE active part in the development of the industrial life of Vancouver Island than Mr. F. D. Little, who passed away early yesterday morning at the family residence on Rockland Avenue. A native of Scotland, he came to Canada in the early 'sixties, as did many of his countrymen, and took part in the gold rush to the Cariboo. But he found his niche on his return from the much-advertised diggings when he joined the Vancouver Island Coal Company which had acquired the Nanaimo field from the Hudson's Bay Company.

That was the decision which began for Mr. Little a successful business career and a lasting friendship with the Dunsmuir family. His first association was with Robert Dunsmuir and later with his son James, who became Premier and Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia. The comprehensive experience of coal mining which Mr. Little acquired under the elder Dunsmuir equipped him for the managerial position he held under the son, whose holdings increased, of course, as new properties were discovered and developed.

The important tasks to which he was assigned Mr. Little discharged with characteristic thoroughness. Although a busy business life did not permit him to take an active part in public affairs, the very nature of Mr. Little's early training and his ultimate success implanted in him a lively interest in British Columbia's steady growth, and particularly her industrial development from the beginning of the present century. His sterling integrity, his unassuming disposition, and his many fine personal qualities won him a wide circle of intimate friends who will extend their sympathy to Mrs. Little and the family in their bereavement.

WORLD ECONOMICS

AT THE PRESENT TIME THE ATTENTION of most nations, Canada included, is concentrated on finding means for reducing expenditure without prejudice to their future livelihood. Side by side, however, with the very concrete problems that have thus to be faced, it seems that attention is being given to the search for a more general programme. It is thought that it should be possible to avoid the recurrence of a series of economic recessions, such as that from which the world in general is suffering, and in many ways the economic foundations of society are being examined in the hope of obtaining formulas on which a more stable construction may be based.

Among the bodies which have been organized for the discussion of such questions, says Engineering, a technical weekly, is the International Industrial Relations Association, of which the purpose is defined as being the study and promotion of satisfactory human relations and conditions in industry. Under the auspices of this association, a World Social Economic Congress was held at Amsterdam, from August 23 to August 29, part of the proceedings of which being devoted to considering the principles and practicability of economic planning. The scope of the intended planning was defined in three papers by Dr. Louis L. Lorwin, of the Institute of Economics of the Brookings Institute at Washington, Dr. H. S. Person, the managing director of the Taylor Society at New York, and Mr. Hugo von Haan, an officer of the International Rationalization Institute, at Geneva.

A planned economy, as defined by Dr. Lorwin, in a system of economic organization, in which all individual and separate plants, enterprises and industries are treated as co-ordinated units of a single whole, for the purpose of utilizing all available resources to achieve the maximum satisfaction of the needs of a people in a given interval of time. The three papers were written from somewhat different points of view. Dr. Person approached the problem as concerned with the stabilization of industry, by which he meant not its reduction to a static condition, but its suitable adjustment and balance in the midst of inevitable change, and he outlined how, in seeking stabilization, the ultimate goal must be rationalization, to be attained by the technique known as scientific management.

Mr. Von Haan traced how, and to what extent from the American movement, the doctrines of scientific management had found their way into Europe, and considered the social economic world planning discussed by the Congress as an application of one of the principles of scientific management. All three authors agreed in believing that to be successful, programmes of planning must not be confined to individual works, individual industries or individual nations, but must ultimately become international.

Two other points to which they agreed were that any such measures must be based on the results of profound economic research into the statistics both of demand and of resources, and would require a far-reaching mechanism of control. The nature of this control, and the extent to which it can be and should be carried, will vary according to the type of economic institutions in which it is to work.

MONEY THROWN AWAY

WHEN TIMES ARE GOOD AND money is plentiful the company promoter finds little difficulty in inducing the lambs to the slaughter by a cunningly-worded prospectus. How they did it in Great Britain in one year, for instance, 1928, is disclosed in the report of the MacMillan Commission. In that twelve months there were floated in London 284 companies to which the public contributed capital to the extent of $885,000,000. In May of this year the total value of these investments was no more than $330,000,000. Seventy of the companies had wound up, and the capital of thirty-six others had no ascertainable value.

Canada has had the same experience as Britain. Millions of dollars of capital was wasted as a result of the boom in stocks. The few took the big profits and left others holding the bag. It was a great orgy. Perhaps the experience through which the world is now passing will be sufficient to remind would-be investors that the over-optimistic prospectus of good times should in future be taken with a grain of salt.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

PRICE STABILIZATION

The Sydney Bulletin

There is a good deal of talk to-day about stabilization. There could be no better thing for the world. It is shocking that a man should borrow the equal of one bale of wool this year and through a change in the purchasing power of gold should have to pay two and one-half bales a few years hence. But at what point are we going to stabilize? Nobody suggests that we should do it at the low prices; nobody that it is the fictitious prices, the result of almost unrestricted credit, which it is desired to maintain. The question is whether that can be done; or, if it can be done, whether it would be wise to do it. Certainly in our own case we shall have to realize that the standards which we set up during the past few years were fictitious, being built largely on credit; and the credit was so wide that we have now decided we must write off some of the debt, or the interest on the debt, which is the same thing.

A PRACTICAL CRUSADER

The Toronto Globe

There is always something comforting in the revelation that prominent men are practicing what they preach. This appears to be the case with Frank J. Barnum of Montreal. For many years Mr. Barnum, a wealthy man, has been a veritable crusader for the preservation of Canada's timber wealth. In the press he has issued repeated warnings that wasteful methods in the felling of trees will bring their punishment, not only in a lessening of the timber resources of the country, but in weakening the productivity of the soil. Mr. Barnum is in earnest about this; and has shown his concern by purchasing a large tract of virgin forest on Vancouver Island in order to prevent its splendid trees being sacrificed to indiscriminate use of the axe. This is the fourth timbered area that has been secured for the same purpose by Mr. Barnum. It would be well if the various governments of the country had this far vision in their handling of the Dominion's timber resources. Fire and insects take an enormous toll of the forest, and when to this is added indifference, or worse, in the granting of cutting rights, thinking men realize the seriousness of the situation.

Mr. Barnum's practical plan for the preservation of at least a section of Canada's timber wealth should stir in the official mind a determination to do everything possible to check the wilful forest waste that is certain in time to bring woeful want.

Loose Ends

Concerning the little-known subject of government—the mistaken notions of Colonel Lindbergh—and the curious business of a small boy.

By H. B. W.

IF ALL the present discussion about the provincial civil service and civil servants' salaries, it seems to me that some important facts are overlooked. I mean, many people seem to think that the government of the country is something apart from the civil service, if we have a good cabinet, no matter how badly we treat the civil service, no matter how inequitable its salaries, no matter how many good civil servants are penalized to provide vacancies for political party hacks. Many people, I imagine, are under the impression that the civil service, after all, merely carries out the beneficent policies of the government. A government, it is supposed, declares a policy or passes a law and, behold, the civil service, seated comfortably at a shiny desk, merely tells the public what to do, merely keeps a few records and engages in no thought processes of its own.

THIS is a mistake and a serious one, not so serious for the civil service, though heaven knows it is treated badly enough at all times, but for the public, for us. It is serious for us because in actual practice the government is not the cabinet. It is the civil service. Occasionally, but rarely, a cabinet may have an idea of its own and order it to be put into operation. Nearly always that idea has emerged quietly, without fuss, from some government department, which has suggested it to some minister, who has suggested it to the cabinet, which polishes it up, decks it with fair words and modestly admits that it is an inspiration of its own.

ANYWAY, EVEN if cabinets thought up their own ideas, they would be no use unless they were carried out. Ideas are not difficult to conceive but just try to carry them out. That is where nearly everybody fails. I mean to say, I can think of many bright ideas about saving the maple trees of Parliament Square, liberating the little white bear and getting Councillor Wrigglesworth to fix my road with three loads of gravel. But I haven't been able to carry one of those splendid conceptions out yet. In the practical workings of government, cabinet ideas usually are pretty rough and ready.

IT is the civil service which, by quiet arrangement and unobtrusive intervention and manipulation, makes the ideas work. The country could carry on quite well without a government as it has done often during election campaigns, but it would stop before to-night without the key men of the civil service, the men who actually are running it, unseen and unknown. Consequently, when you demoralize its spirit, as it is demoralized now, when you make it feel that it may be fired before to-morrow night you do not injure so much as you injure yourself. There are civil servants over in James Bay, who, by merely stopping their constant battle to keep down expenses, by taking it easy for a little while, could cost us taxpayers millions of dollars. It is useful to give such men, say, half the consideration and half the salaries they would receive in private business.

COLONEL CHARLES A. LINDBERGH recently stated that "with the advance of radio and aircraft the mystery of distance can no longer exist." This remark, which has been widely quoted, is a profoundly untrue. For while men like Colonel Lindbergh are busy annihilating distance around the earth and may obliterate it altogether after a while, another body of men are so busy expanding distance elsewhere that the mystery is increasing every day. I do not mean this in a figurative or poetical sense. It is literally true that astronomy has lately expanded the range of its observations so far, and has so altered men's conceptions of the universe, that the little mystery of this earth, the little distances between foreign lands, seem quite absurd by comparison.

THIS is very important, though many people don't realize it. It is probably the most important thing that has ever happened to our race and what its ultimate effect will be even I do not know. It is important because, for hundreds of years, men's philosophies, religions, habits of thought, their entire lives were built on the assumption that the world was an important place and had some meaning in the general scheme. Now we are told, and the idea is getting abroad at last, that the earth to the universe is like one grain of sand to all the seashores of the world. That is what Jeans says and, more important still, he holds that we are the only life in the whole universe—that life on our speck of sand is a pure accident, unexpected, unwanted and soon to disappear.

IF MEN agree to that idea, of course, their religions, their philosophies and even their desire to live at all will probably collapse. There will be no particular object in keeping them going. Let him look out into the sky on one of these crystal September nights. Then, remembering that we are but a grain of sand and supposing that we are the only forgotten whisp of life in the teeming universe, let him contemplate the mystery. Modern science has made such a mystery here, indeed, has made us appear so insignificant that a sensitive man prefers to stay indoors at night and try to interest himself in the finan-

WHEN I was driving to town on a recent Saturday morning I picked up a lad who seemed about seven years old and gave him a lift. He said he was walking to town, a distance of some four miles, and that he would also walk back when he had finished his business, as he did every Saturday. And what do you suppose his business was? His business was to watch the Empress of Asia come in. He said he had seen the Empress of Japan and the Empress of Canada as well as innumerable smaller craft, but he wanted to see the Asia. It was still three hours before the time when the Asia was due in, but he said he would spend the interval examining some of the tugs and yachts and fishing boats in the inner harbor.

TRUE, they didn't amount to much, but they were sufficient to amuse a fellow for a few hours. Any ship, it seemed, was better than no ship at all, and as he had been walking four miles to town every Saturday and four miles back for a long time, he said he knew almost every vessel, large or small, which entered this port. When I asked him what he found of interest in ships, he replied, "When I'm a little older I'm going to be a sailor. Why? 'Oh, I want to see the rest of the world. I want to go to China and Brazil and everywhere. That's why I'm learnin' all about ships now.' While the willingness of a small boy to walk eight miles to see a ship may seem quite unimportant to you, I find it very enlightening. It seems to indicate that even in this age of machinery and machine-made men, even in this quiet countryside of Saanich, something of an old, old spirit remains, and is dying hard.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES
September 28, 1906

The Canadian-Australian liner Aorangi, J. D. S. Phillips, commandant, arrived at the outer wharf at 8 o'clock this morning after having lain at William Head all last night.

Victoria's annual exhibition is drawing to a close to-morrow, being the last day. Perhaps it is unnecessary to say, but it would perhaps be well to remind those who have not yet attended, that the entertainment offered them has never been excelled in the history of British Columbia.

Weather Forecast—Victoria and vicinity—Light to moderate winds, generally fair and cold at night.

Victoria proper was extremely quiet yesterday. There was none of the commercial activity; indeed, one might have paraded the principal streets without coming in contact with a single prominent business man. And what was the reason for this exceptional quietude? Everyone, all citizens and their families, were at the exhibition.

To-morrow evening Her Excellency Countess Grey, Lady Sybil Grey and Lady Evelyn Grey, Mrs. Dunsmuir and Misses Marion and Eleanor Dunsmuir are expected to reach the city.

At the banquet given in Vancouver on Wednesday to His Excellency Earl Grey by the members of the forestry convention and the visitors of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, excellent speeches were delivered. A synopsis of that by Earl Grey appeared in yesterday's Times.

THOUSANDS AT DEDICATION OF CITY TEMPLE

Rev. J. H. N. Williams, D.D. of Nevada Officiated at Dedication Services Yesterday

Lieut.-Governor Fordham Johnson and Premier Tolmie Attended Ceremonies

The Victoria City Temple dedication yesterday attracted thousands to the three services held under the direction of Rev. J. H. N. Williams, D.D., and Rev. James E. N. Williams, D.D., superintendent of Nevada district in the California conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, with Mrs. Fordham Johnson and Miss Fordham Johnson, together with the Premier and Mrs. S. F. Tolmie, attended the formal dedication service. His Honor was attended by A. M. D. Fairbairn, private secretary.

The ceremonies marked a notable forward step by the church, which entered upon a new era, with its own building equipped for a programme of regular services, and all the auxiliary activities for which the City Temple has become conspicuous. All the services were well supported by the Temple choir—G. A. Downard, musical director, with F. Grace Desville, accompanist, and the Victoria symphonic ensemble, Alfred Prescott, conductor, with J. H. Wilson at the piano, contributing an elaborate musical prelude at the afternoon service.

Dr. James Williams, a former conferee of Dr. Davies in Salt Lake City, Utah, received an enthusiastic welcome and proved a preacher of remarkable power. His sermon, harmonized greatly to the success of the dedication.

At the morning service Dr. Williams spoke on the significance of freedom of choice, as seen in the life and career of Moses, the Hebrew lawgiver. The evening discourse was an earnest compelling sermon of spiritual interpretation of the face of Jesus as seen by His family, His neighbors, His disciples, the people of countryside village and town, by Pontius Pilate, by those who gazed about the Cross and in the forty days from the Resurrection to the Ascension.

The dedicatory sermon of the afternoon by Dr. Williams stressed the meaning and place of the church in the world, with particular relation to the specific position the City Temple occupies in Victoria. The sermon in part follows:

"This is a day of congratulation to all who are connected with the City Temple, because it is a day of noble achievement in purpose and plan, in acts and services well done, culminating in this entrance into the possession of this house of worship as the material property of the City Temple in which there may justly be pride of ownership in 'possessing your possessions.'"

"This is not to be any narrow contracted sense of ownership, but rather a broad sharing with others in all that you may be able to supply as a church and a social institution. If Christianity means anything, it means that there are others more than for ourselves, even as Christ came not to be ministered unto but to minister."

"I will not seek to gather up what these previous preliminary years have been to you as minister and people in incentive and inception, in struggle and cost, for that would not be much other than a reminiscence. I lay emphasis upon any definition of the church, for that would involve not a little that is ecclesiastical and often controversial. But I will recognize the City Temple as a church functioning after the New Testament pattern."

"Surely you are called to be an assembly of servants to serve the King of kings, and we are here to dedicate this material building unto spiritual uses. And I would remind you that it is to be for all people—your little ones that may be taught the love and care of God; for your youths that they may learn the simple and beautiful things of the Christian faith and life; for your young men and young women to be developed in the principles of Christian citizenship to fear God and to honor the King while they serve the commonwealth; for your fathers and mothers—men and women of responsibility that they may know the value of fellowship and the strength of united service; for your elderly people nearing life's sunset that they be comforted in old age while enjoying the light at eventide in anticipation of the light and life eternal."

"Nor must your ministry stay itself here. You are a Christian organization within a city of a province of a designated dominion within an empire related to a sisterhood of nations throughout the world. Through your sympathy, your prayer, life and missionary spirit and contact you must feel and respond to the call of the world."

"In this solemn dedication I put you in as a living stone in that spiritual temple which Christ is rearing to benefit all mankind. So to it that your stone becomes not a stone covered by indifference and neglect. By the strength of your faith, the reality of your love, and the wholeness of your consecrated services to your stone polished and bright and recognizable."

"Y" APPLE DAY TO AID YOUNG CITY ATHLETES

As an indication of the effectiveness of training given athletes in the Y.M.C.A. and as a further justification for holding their tag day next Saturday, in order that they may give other youths the instruction that will send them into the championship class in the sporting world, the "Y" Apple Day committee has drawn up a list of some of the association's title winners.

In a statement issued this morning they sketch the "Y's" proud record in the following words:

"Pete Tyson won the lightweight British Columbia wrestling championship at New Westminster and competed in Canadian championship at Winnipeg."

"The Y.M.C.A. track team won practically all Vancouver Island titles at Nanaimo meet recently."

"Chuck Cunningham, half mile British Columbia champion, ran the fastest half mile registered by any British Columbia boy in the last ten years."

"Y.M.C.A. relay team beat Washington Athletic Club in 400 metre relay at the recent international meet in Vancouver."

"Denny Walker is the Canadian title holder for back stroke swimming."

"The Y.M.C.A. football team reached the finals of the Davis Cup series."

"We are certainly all proud of the Y.M.C.A. physical department achievements and there are many other ways in which Y.M.C.A. boys gain achievement, too. In the church, in the home and in business Y.M.C.A. training is a great influence."

"The Apple Day, which is being held on Saturday, is for funds to help this work. There will be a great number of canvassers. Everyone will be asked to contribute what he or she can. Formerly many who have been sympathetic toward the Y.M.C.A. have not been approached. Apple Day offers all these friends an opportunity to help as every home and office and factory will be visited. The finest of British Columbia apples will be offered in return for whatever the citizens care to give."

Most building is done when prices are at a peak. Too few persons have the courage and foresight to buy and build when prices are low.

ETHEL LUENING MAKES HIT AT RECITAL HERE

Former Local Schoolgirl Is Lyric Soprano of Talent and Charm

A former Victoria public school girl, who is remembered by a good many people here, came back to a local concert platform Saturday evening with a wide reputation for grand opera and concert performance, and delighted her audience at the Shrine Auditorium. The recital of Ethel Codd Luening, the first of the season under the auspices of the National Music League, was certainly a fine example of vocal virtuosity, for the programme included certain of the tricky melodies of the German composers as well as the more familiar Hebridean folk numbers and "Under the Greenwood Tree," "Songs My Mother Taught Me," and "When I Was Seventeen."

Ethel Luening possesses a lyric soprano voice of freshness and warmth. She articulates clearly and a certain spontaneity about her especially in the lighter numbers, proved exceedingly catching. While she does not appear to have complete confidence yet on her highest notes, she nevertheless has a considerable range and plenty of resources of interpretation. And, then, apart from her vocal qualities, she has a very pleasing youthful appearance and a way of carrying herself on the platform which all add to the delight of the listener. So favorable was the impression she made that the audience was insistent in its applause and called her back during the evening for four encores.

HUSBAND ACCOMPANIES
Her Otto Luening, her husband, accompanied on the piano except when he was playing his flute obbligato, and then the accompanying was done by Miss Beatrice Hicks. The perfect harmony between singer and flautist, and the understanding of each other when Herr Luening was at the piano, undoubtedly was one of the treats of the evening. In the last number, "The Wren" (Sir Julius Benedict), the trilling of the voice to the flute accompaniment brought forth a premature burst of applause and the piece was continued amid hand-clapping.

The programme opened with the difficult "Nightingale Scene" from John Milton's "Il Penseroso," with music by Handel and flute obligato. The rendition of this was artistic and sincere, and like all Mrs. Luening's interpretations quite free from any striving after effect. But the audience was not really won over till Schubert's "Ungeheuer," the first of the succeeding German group, had been sung. This, like Brahms' "Dart in den Weiden," was of a gay nature and gave plenty of opportunity to the singer's youthfulness and charm.

The other two numbers in this group, of a heavier stamp, were Brahms' "Aue Aue Aue" and Mendelssohn's "Auf Fluegel des Gesanges."

The rest of the programme was made up of the following:

3. "Variation on a Theme of Mozart" (A. Adam), with flute obligato.
4. "Under the Greenwood Tree" (Shakespeare) (A. Burdett), with flute obligato.
5. Ancient songs of the Hebrides Islands of Scotland: "Christ Child's Lullaby," arranged by Marjory Kennedy-Fraser; "Milkmaid's Song," "Spinning Song."

6. "Fruehlingstimmen," Viennese Waltz Song (Johann Strauss).
7. "Songs My Mother Taught Me" (Dvorak); "Cradle Song" (Grieg); "A Maiden Yonder Sings" (Schubert); "When I Was Seventeen," Swedish folksong.

8. "The Wren" (Sir Julius Benedict), with flute obligato.

In the Hebridean group, Mrs. Luening herself pointed out that the "Milkmaid's Song" was sung by the milkers and was supposed to make the cows give a greater yield, and that the "Spinning Song" was sung by the women at work.

During the intermission, Harry Langley, the local representative of the National Music League, spoke of last Saturday's programme of grand opera, when two representatives of the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company will sing the famous love scenes from "Faust," "Manon" and "Carmen." Victorians have always been "big" on grand opera. Mr. Langley said, and have had to go to Chicago or Seattle to get it. Now it will be brought to them. Mrs. Luening also mentioned that Herr Luening plans to stay two months in Victoria composing an opera, "Evangeline," based on Longfellow's poem, and that he is going to give it a Victoria background.

FOREST FIRE OCCURRENCE WAS LESS THAN LAST YEAR

Four Out of Six Districts Show Decrease in Number of Outbreaks

Inclusion of Railway Belt in Provincial Administration Swells Total

Tokio, one of the finest buildings erected since the earthquake, will shortly be completed and occupied by himself and the embassy staff, Mr. Forbes stated.

TOOK LINDBERGS TO MOUNTAINS
When Col. Charles Lindbergh and Mrs. Anne Lindbergh completed their notable flight across the North Pacific via Canada to Japan, Ambassador Forbes and Mrs. Russell had the honor of entertaining them.

"The Japanese people gave them a remarkable reception and they appreciated the cordial nature of the welcome," he said.

The ambassador took the Lindberghs away from the crowds to the Japanese capital for four days.

Mr. Forbes is an elderly bachelor. He was governor of the Philippine Islands from 1909 to the fall of 1913, when he resigned. He was a member of the Wood-Forbes mission sent by the late President Harding to investigate conditions in the Philippines in 1921.

Although the total of actual outbreaks is higher than last year, forest fire occurrence in B.C. this year was only ninety-three per cent of the 1930 toll, according to the weekly bulletin of the Forest Branch.

This is accounted for by the fact that a larger area was covered this year through the acquisition by the province of the railway lands belt. Moreover the hazardous season was longer than usual, having started earlier.

To the end of last week 2,474 fires had been recorded for the year as against 2,319 last year and 2,011 in 1929. Forest officials consider the fire season is now over. While there were thirty-three outbreaks last week the hazard is light or practically nil all over the province.

Four districts out of the six fire areas in the province show a decrease in the total number of outbreaks this year.

The Vancouver district, which includes

Vancouver Island, dropped from 534 to 438, nearly 20 per cent. The Prince George area had only 175 fires, against 285 last year. Prince Rupert dropped from 200 to 168 and Cariboo from 175 to 167.

The added task of caring for the railway belt is shown in the figures for the southern interior of Kamloops. Kamloops jumped from 133 fires to 461 and the southern interior from 888 to 975.

A summary of the Forest Branch reports show that the end of July and the month of August were the worst fire months. Commencing about July 20, extremely hazardous conditions prevailed, and in the week ending July 24, 156 outbreaks were reported. This jumped to 225 the following week, with the conditions very dangerous and the first seven days in August saw the greatest fire total of the year, 234.

The next week there were 189 fires, then 208 and 194 the last week of the month, giving August a total of 825, or one-third of the season's total.

ESQUIMALT GIRL IS PRETTY BRIDE

Miss Irene A. Lamb Wed Saturday to George H. West

The marriage was quietly solemnized at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. J. S. Patterson, on Saturday evening at 8.30 o'clock, of Irene Alberta, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Lamb, 1211 Carlisle Avenue, to George Henry West, only son of Mr. and Mrs. G. West, Esquimalt.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked charming in a frock of Monet blue georgette, made with a full-flared skirt and short coat and a wreath of orange blossoms in her hair. She wore a corsage of Ophelia roses. Her sister, Mrs. Violet Buzza, as matron of honor, wore a frock of orchid georgette, her corsage being of Ophelia roses. Mr. A. C. Milnes acted as best man.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, where the bridal pair received the congratulations of their friends. Refreshments were served by the bride's mother, wearing a gown of black crepe-back satin, and chiffon velvet, with corsage of pink carnations, assisted by Mrs. G. West Sr., the groom's mother wearing a black velvet dress with corsage of carnations.

The table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake, surmounted with a silver vase filled with pink roses. The color scheme was carried out in orchid and white.

Mr. and Mrs. West left on the night boat for Vancouver, the bride traveling in a navy blue silk frock; navy blue fur-trimmed coat and an Empress Eugene hat to match. Among the gifts was a walnut standard lamp from the accountant branch of the West Coast R.C.N., with which the groom is associated.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

FOUR-HOUR FEEDING INTERVALS IN ORDER AFTER SIX MONTHS

The new born baby does not require food oftener than once in three hours. The baby who weighs more than six pounds at birth can go four hours with comfort and with a good weekly gain, providing, of course, that the food is ample.

A two-hour feeding interval for a husky, twenty-three-pound child results in gross overfeeding. Mrs. E. B.'s infant daughter is seven and one-half months old and is all chuckles. She sleeps from 6 p.m. to 7 a.m. and has done this since she was three months of age. She has no teeth, but is attempting to crawl.

TOO MANY FEEDINGS

Her mother queries: "I would like to know if I need to give her a bottle at 7 a.m. as she doesn't seem to want it. Also may I omit her 3 p.m. feeding and give her just a cup of milk instead? She takes both orange juice and soup by cup. Here is the way she is fed: 7 a.m., bottle; 9 a.m., orange juice; 10 a.m., cereal and six ounces of milk; 12 noon, vegetable soup and rusk, sometimes sliced vegetables; 2 p.m., eight ounces of milk; 4 p.m., cereal; 6 p.m., eight ounces of milk.

"She is plump and firm, but not fat. Her formula consists of thirty ounces of milk, ten ounces of water and two tablespoons of corn syrup."

TRY THIS SCHEDULE

Milk is a food, exactly as is cereal. Every time you give the baby a cup of milk you are giving her a meal, and from your schedule you can see how many meals she gets a day.

Her first meal should be at 7 a.m. Just her bottle of milk. At 9 a.m. she may have orange juice. This may be given right with breakfast, but small babies often enjoy it more keenly when it is given alone. At 11 a.m. pour some of her milk over her cereal and give the rest to drink by bottle or cup. The long morning nap follows immediately. At 3 p.m. give her vegetable soup, or vegetables with rusk followed by bottle of milk. At 7 p.m. give cereal, followed by the last bottle of milk.

She takes only four feedings a day, so she should have whole milk without sugar or water. You are preparing five bottles now and giving only four. Thus she does not get thirty ounces of milk, but only twenty-four, an inadequate amount for a baby weighing twenty-three pounds. Give one quart of milk a day. If you cook her cereal in half milk and half water, divide the rest of the quart of milk into four bottles, giving them at the above hours. If you want to end the baby's day at 6 p.m. and the last meal at 6 p.m. This makes an interval of only three hours between 11 and 2, but that is all right for this one meal.

To-morrow: "Helter-skelter Methods Are Hard on Baby."

Injured Child Lies In Gully Four Hours

Vancouver, Sept. 28.—Falling into a gully on Burnaby Mountain, overlooking Barnet, Saturday afternoon, ten-year-old Marion McLean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart McLean, Warwick Street, Hastings East, lay helpless more than four hours with a broken arm while a band of companions sought aid.

With six other children, including her twelve-year-old brother and a baby sister, the girl was exploring the peak when she slipped from a steep bluff about 4.30 p.m. Her companions went to the home of Mrs. E. Bieganshan, at Hastings Street and Beaver Trail, who summoned assistance from Barnet. The girl was rescued with the aid of ropes about 9 p.m.—She was treated by Dr. J. A. McIvor, who found her arm to be broken in two places.

ELEN HICKS AS EYES ON BRITISH TITLE

Her of U.S. Women's Golf Championship May Go After Elusive Crown

New York, Sept. 28.—Elen Hicks, national golf champion at the age of twenty, is looking ahead and casting a weather eye on the British title which has resisted American's attempt to lift it.

Hicks has made no definite plans for a trip abroad next spring, but she is sure that she will again for the British crown will do so if she possibly can. She has a large contingent of fans who sought the champion at Formby in 1930, but was beaten by Miss Wilson, present British champion.

Friday she was opposed to Miss Wilson, but this time she turned the tables. She won the first two sets, but then went on to conquer Hicks in the final by the same score.

Her immediate plans call for her to compete in the Canadian title, starting at Philadelphia tomorrow.

One of the competitors at the national tournament at Buffalo, ended Saturday, went to Toronto to compete for the Canadian title, beginning to-day. Miss Vane and Miss Wilson are among them.

time later to display his old form again on placards when teamed with Gledhill, he did more than his share in keeping the championship doubles combination of Allison and Van Ryn on even terms. The match was halted at dusk at fourteen games for each team, in the first set. It will be replayed this afternoon, the teams starting from scratch.

MRS HARPER WINS
The women's singles title was won, as expected, by Mrs. L. A. Harper, Oakland southpaw, ranked No. one nationally in 1930. She beat Miss Josephine Cruikshank, Santa Ana, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Vines came back to the court a short time later to display his old form again on placards when teamed with Gledhill, he did more than his share in keeping the championship doubles combination of Allison and Van Ryn on even terms. The match was halted at dusk at fourteen games for each team, in the first set. It will be replayed this afternoon, the teams starting from scratch.

Two touchdowns by the veteran Greg Grassick, who has been a star at the University of North Dakota, and a kick to the deadline by the same player, gave Al Ritchie's squad a 13 to 2 lead at half time. The Quakers' points were scored on McDonald's kicking, one being a kick to the deadline and the other a rouge.

Saskatoon added another point on Butch Scharf's kick in the third quarter. Schave completed the scoring for the match with a field goal in the fourth.

The difference in the opposing lines accounted for the difference in score. The Quaker line was woefully weak and allowed Eddie James and Fred Goodman to tear through for yards on numerous occasions.

Calgary, Alta., Sept. 28.—Calgary's Altomah-Tiger rugby squad made it two straight over the Edmonton Eskimos here Saturday by winning the second game of the Provincial League, 4 to 0. A rouge and a field goal were the only points scored in the game, and the blubber attack will have to take their two straight wins in order to break even with Fritz Sanstrom's crowd.

More than 2,500 fans crowded into the park to see the opening game in Calgary and watch the visitors try hard to even up the series after their defeat in Edmonton last week. A field goal by Ralph Johnson in the third quarter gave the Altomah-Tigers three.

The forward pass was used occasionally, but both teams relied on kicking most of the time.

Lawn Bowling
There were sixty entries for the annual points competition of the Victoria Lawn Bowling Club held on the Beacon Hill greens on Saturday afternoon. The winner was George Raby, with the record score of 34 points. H. M. Wright was second with 26, A. Macdonald third with 23, Mrs. Macdonald fourth with 21, and J. A. Macdonald fifth with 20. There were quite a number of women entrants, and Mrs. A. Macdonald distinguished herself by being among the highest.

In the women's singles, Mrs. A. Read defeated Mrs. J. L. White in a well-contested game by a score of 21 to 20. At the last end the score stood 20 to 18 in favor of Mrs. White, but Mrs. Read got in the three necessary shots to give her the game, though so closely that it was necessary to measure for the past point. Mrs. Read, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Macdonald and Mrs. Simmons still remain to play off the final.

The Beacon Hill greens will be closed for the season next Saturday with an all-round competition for which an entrance fee of fifty cents will be charged for the benefit of the club funds.

West Bromwich Are Now Leading First Division Football

Star Club in English Soccer Last Season Battles Way Into Leadership of Senior Division; Score Lone Goal to Beat Portsmouth; Arsenal Pressed to Turn Back Strong Challenge of Everton; Waring Scores Four Goals as Aston Villa Strengthens Position; Weaker Clubs Show Form in Scottish First Division

London, Sept. 28.—The star club in English soccer last year, West Bromwich Albion, monopolized the limelight in first division games on Saturday when they went to Portsmouth, won and pulled themselves to the top of the championship table. Last season they won the English Cup and promotion from the second to the first division. They won by the one goal scored against Portsmouth.

Sheffield Wednesday, pace-setters before the season started, faded miserably at Newcastle and have now been passed in the standing by their fellow citizens, the United. Arsenal, league champions, stalled off the challenge of Everton. The London club, however, did badly. West Ham United were crushed by Aston Villa, while Chelsea were humbled at Leicester. In the second division Huddersfield continued to sink, being beaten by Notts Forest at White Hart Lane.

FINE MATCH
The match at Highbury was a battle between champions, Arsenal having the first division last season and Everton second. Fifty thousand people saw Arsenal win by 3 to 2, after a robust encounter. Everton drew first blood when Critchley scrambled the ball into the net in the twenty-fifth minute. Bastin, recovered from his injuries, gave openings which enabled Lambert and Jack to goal for Arsenal before the interval. Everton equalized twenty minutes after the turn-round, but Lambert deservedly notched the winning goal for Arsenal.

Aston Villa, who have played only six games, strengthened their position by their win over West Ham United before 40,000. Young Waring scored four goals for the Villa, two in each half. After the Villa had put on three goals, West Ham got goals through Wood and Tate, the latter pushing the ball through his own posts. The Villa hit back and Houghton and Waring put the game on ice for the Villa.

BIG SURPRISE
Lowly Newcastle created one of the biggest surprises of the day by defeating the Wednesday, a strong club. Leeds United, in the second division, gave another of their impressive performances on the field, beating Bristol City by 2 to 0. Just before the interval Furness scored for Leeds from short range. Keetley increased Leeds' lead in the second half. Bristol made no reply.

Bury had to fight hard to retain their position at the top of the second division table. They beat Millwall by 2 to 0, Edleston and Lindsay, scoring. Fulham's promotion ambitions received a setback when they sustained their first home defeat in a southern section, third division game, at the hands of Northampton Town. Bowen goal for Northampton Town in the fourteenth minute, and Wells ten minutes later. Daves had Northampton's third goal in the goal-scoring center. Fulham, had to wait until just on time before he could beat the Northampton goal.

Glasgow, Scotland, Sept. 28.—Several of the sides in Scottish First Division soccer, who have far from good appointments, did well in Saturday's games. Hearts, who had taken but one point in their previous five matches, fairly surprised Rangers at Tynecastle. The match resulted in a scoreless draw.

After four losses in succession, Partick Thistle defeated Kilmarnock at Firhill Park, winning by 4 to 2. The Thistle had not lost a game since August 15. Kilmarnock did the hat trick for the Thistle. Kilmarnock let twice during the game. Queen's Park, who dropped their first six games, are now doing famously. Their draw with Cowdenbeath was an excellent performance. They were down at half time, but put on a fine second half performance.

SCORE FIRST WIN
Ayr United secured their first win at Dundee's expense. Armstrong, the old Pollok leader, playing for Ayr, scored four goals and materially helped to give them victory over Morton. After being held in the first half, Celtic overcame Falkirk to win easily. Dundee and Clyde were engaged in a good draw on the former's grounds. Dundee, at home, made a show of Leith Athletic, putting in seven goals, while their opponents could only reply with one. Third Lanark, who gave a good second half display, earned the full points from Aberdeen.

Scorers in games were: Aldrie—Armstrong 4, J. Paterson. Morton—Black. Ayr—United—Merris, McGillivray. Dundee—United—Nil. Celtic—Napier 2, R. Thompson, McGroarty, Falkirk—Hamil.

Cowdenbeath—Campbell 2. Queen's Park—Chapman, Crawford. Dundee—Balfour, Clyde—Boyd. Motherwell—McPayden 4, Douglas 2. Stevenson, Leith Athletic—Nicol.

Partick Thistle—Morrison 3, Torbet. Kilmarnock—Connell, McEwan. St. Mirren—Meehan, Hamilton. Academicals—Nil. Third Lanark—Blair, Dewar, Aberdeen—Nil.

First-mentioned clubs played at home.

Hitchcock Stars In Polo Victory

Port Washington, Sept. 28.—Tommy Hitchcock, playing some of the most sensational polo he has exhibited all season, led the Greenree team to victory yesterday over the Gauchos, a combination three-quarters Argentine, in the first semi-final of the Monty Waterbury cup handicap tournament.

The score of American polo tallied six goals and paved the way for as many others as Greenree, withstanding a last period spurt by their rivals, squeezed out a 15 to 14 decision on the field of the Sandsport Club. Nearly 3,000 spectators watched one of the closest and most exciting matches of the high goal season, with the deciding goal scored in the last minute of play by John Hay (Jock) Whitney, on a long pass from Hitchcock.

New York, Sept. 28.—John A. Heydler, president of the National League, yesterday named William J. Klem and Albert (Dolly) Stark to serve as umpires for the world series.

Heydler also announced appointment of Ernest Quigley and George Magers to serve as umpires for the Chicago city series between the White Sox and the Cubs.

President William Harridge of the American League yesterday named Richard F. Nalin and William A. McGowan as the American League umpires for the world series.

LATEST BOOKS ON SHELVES OF LOCAL LIBRARY

"Beyond Physics," By Sir Oliver Lodge, Interprets Life "Physico-spiritually"

Stuart Chase Writes on Prosperity; New Biography By Andre Maurois

The Victoria Public Library has assembled some of the most interesting current books which will be available to members, to-day, "Beyond physics," by Sir Oliver Lodge, is a survey and an attempted extension of modern physics in a philosophical and physical direction. "This book seeks to sustain and even elaborate the physical side of things and yet to insist on the domination of the spiritual," the fly-leaf explains.

A book of considerable topical interest is the "Simon Report on India—An Abridgement," which is a summary of all the essential facts and opinions embodied in the two volumes issued by the Indian Statutory Commission, presented over by Sir John Simon.

Property, Fact or Myth, by the noted economist, Stuart Chase, points out that business is not yet below the prosperity level, that investors instead of gamblers will probably control the stock market in the immediate future and that the two pressing problems are technological unemployment and the farmer's plight.

Two other books of an economic-political nature are "Problem of Unemployment" and "XYZ of Communism."

Of a more literary nature is one of the most remarkable biographies of the year, John Middleton Murry's "Son of Woman," an interpretation of D. H. Lawrence. It is Murry's contention that Lawrence, who died comparatively young a year or so ago, was fated all his life by a "mother fixation," a youthful love for his mother which withered all his later relations with women. The contention is traced through Lawrence's novels, which Murry declares, are "biographical."

Also detailed in full is the way Lawrence came to set his way of living against Christ's and to contrast the two ways in one of his last works, the remarkable "Man Who Died." Lawrence is generally recognized as one of the strangest men of his generation, and the fact that he recognized the mistake of his own life and lived it through as warning to others not to follow him, has made him, says Murry, a kind of "twentieth century martyr."

Also on the latest list is Andre Maurois's biography of Marshall Lyautey, the builder of the French colonial empire of North Africa. Other books follow:

NON-FICTION

"Archaeology and the Bible," by George Barton, is divided into two parts. Part one is devoted to Bible lands, their exploration and the resultant light shed on the Bible and history. Part two contains translations of ancient documents which confirm or illumine the Bible.

"Out of the Ark," by R. D. is a series of satirical and nonsensical doggerels on animals. R.D. will be remembered as the author of "Less Eminent Victorians."

"The Second Twenty Years at Hull House," by Jane Addams, brings the history of Hull House, the famous social settlement in Chicago, down to date.

"Etchings," by H. W. Heintzelman, is a collection of etchings by a modern American etcher, Heintzelman, and a prophecy concerning the future for him.

"Phaedra," by John Galen Howard, succeeds in drama, a departure in poetry. In this poem, the great sculptor tells of his life; his friend Pantheus tells the tale and gives his own vivid account of the sculptor's death in prison.

"Oral French Method," by Alice Blum, aims to teach French sound, thus co-ordinating the senses of hearing and seeing.

"Most Women," by Alec Waugh, is a dissertation on the ways of women in all lands. It is a delightful mingling of fact and fancy.

"Changing Fabric of Japan," by Captain M. D. Kennedy, discusses the far-reaching changes in the social, economic and political structure of Japan that have been taking place in recent years.

"Portrait of a Chinese Lady," by Lady Hsiao, is an informal book dealing with modern China and its problems. These articles originally appeared in papers and magazines, such as The Daily Mail, Windsor Magazine, etc.

"Marshall Lyautey," by Andre Maurois, the biography of the master builder of the great French colonial empire of North Africa. Mr. Maurois has written this study on independent lines, but with his subject's encouragement and help.

"Problem of Unemployment," by P. H. Douglas, is a discussion of the causes and extent of unemployment in America and Europe and the possible remedies. Cyclical, seasonal, technological and chronic unemployment are studied with much detail and analytical statistical data, and a number of plans, private and public, for alleviation are discussed.

"XYZ of Communism," by E. T. Colton, aims to show the results of the application in Russia of the theories of communism, particularly those theories which were set forth by two Communist leaders, Bukharin and Preobrazhensky, in their "ABC of Communism," published in England in 1922.

"Chief Contemporary Dramatists," edited by T. F. Dickinson, is the third volume of the series. Professor Dickinson has selected twenty important plays from the recent drama of the United States, Great Britain, Germany, Austria, France, Italy, Spain, Russian, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, the Yiddish theatre and Scandinavia.

"Horse in Magic and Myth," by M. O. Howey, is a fascinating discussion of horses as they have appeared from time immemorial.

"Glory of Britain," by David Masters, states how much the people of the earth owe to Britain for the marvelous

If you suffer from biliousness or indigestion there is nothing better than Inventions that make life easier, the striking medical discoveries, the ideas which have helped to sweep away slavery, tyranny and intolerance.

"Historia Regum Britanniae," by Arthur Jones, is taken direct from the earliest manuscript, together with the first Latin translation.

Other books received during the past week are:

"Modern Russia," by J. H. McFarland; "Salt of the Earth," by E. W. Armstrong; "Jerusalem, 1918-1920," and "Jerusalem, 1920-1922," edited by C. R. Ashbee; "Book of Design," "Colombia," by Blair Miles; "Since Calvary," by Lewis Brower; "Pinnacles," by Gilmour; "Small Nurey," by Nelson Cook; "Ukrainian Canadians," by C. H. Young; "Physical Principles of Wireless," by J. A. Ratcliffe; "Alcatraz Power Plants," "Plan Reading and Quantity Surveying," by C. F. Dingman; "Bank for International Settlements," by Paul Einzig.

Johnston's Illustrated Atlas of the British Empire; "Annual of American Design, 1931"; "Select Bibliography of Modern Economic Theory," compiled by H. E. Batson.

FICTION

"Galloping Down," by B. Beckwith, tells of the son of a hard-drinking, fast-living Irish family, who comes out to British Columbia to escape the old tradition of wasting.

"Saint," by Conrad Meyer, is the first of a series of representative Canadian nineteenth century literature. It is the story of the strife between Henry and Thomas a Beckett; "Murder of Some Importance," by Bruce Grayme, is a speedy and readable mystery; "Murder Incidental," by Keith Traill, is a mystery story laid against the background of foreign countries and adventure.

SLAND MINING PIONEER DEAD

late Francis D. Little Long Associated With Dunsuir Interests

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the family residence, 1636 Rockland avenue, for Francis Deane Little, pioneer industrialist, who passed away here at 12:30 o'clock yesterday morning, after a long illness. He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Mrs. H. Despard Twigg, Victoria, and Mrs. Norman Williamson, Montreal, who is at present in this city.

CARIBOO GOLD RUSH

A native of Hawick, Scotland, Mr. Little was attracted as a young man to the gold mines of the Cariboo, arriving in Victoria from his native land in 1882. He immediately set out for the Cariboo, where he spent several years in the search of gold. He returned to Victoria in 1890, after a long and successful career in the Cariboo. He was then employed by the Dunsuir Mining Company, and later by the Dunsuir Coal Company. He was a pioneer in the development of the Cariboo, and his name is associated with the early days of the gold rush.

MANAGER OF FIELDS

On the discovery of the new field at Wellington by Mr. Dunsuir, Mr. Little was engaged in an executive position, his responsibilities increasing as the new field prospered. Under his management, Mr. Little was able to develop the field into a successful enterprise. He was a pioneer in the development of the Cariboo, and his name is associated with the early days of the gold rush.

FINE TRIBUTES AT FUNERAL OF WM. HENDERSON

Freemasons, Public Officials and Many Friends Attended Impressive Rites Saturday

Many beautiful floral tributes and an unusually large and representative congregation, including a large delegation from the Masonic Craft, and many prominent business men and public officials of the community, marked the very impressive services held on Saturday afternoon for the late William Henderson, highly esteemed Scottish pioneer, and for many years resident architect of the Dominion Department of Public Works.

MASONIC AUSPICES

The long cortege left Haywards B.C. Funeral Chapel at 3:30 o'clock, proceeding to St. Columba United Church, where the pastor, Rev. W. A. Guy, conducted the impressive service. The funeral was held under the auspices of the A.P. and A.M. Famous Comedienne Here Today Admits Receiving Enticing Offer

Stage Coming Back; Room For Both Pictures and Legitimate, She Says

Piquant Billie Burke, idol of theatregoers throughout the world, arrived yesterday from Seattle and has since spent the time renewing her acquaintances with Victoria. This evening Miss Burke will appear in that scintillating and sophisticated play "The Vinegar Tree."

In reality Miss Burke has emerged from voluntary retirement and is induced to do so by Ivor Novello, author of "The Truth Game," which had a record run in New York last winter. She is noted as one of the most beautiful women on the stage to-day and no less an expert on beautiful women than Florence Ziegfeld chose her for his wife.

HUSBAND JOINING HER

She received a long-distance telephone call this morning from her husband, Robert Baird, who is at the Empress Hotel, and when she answered it discovered to her delight that it was her husband speaking from his home in Santa Monica, Cal. Mr. Baird told his wife that it was an expensive call, but he wanted to let her know that he would be with her in Vancouver this week. The call made Mrs. Ziegfeld happy for the rest of the day.

BANKS NOW PAY EIGHT PER CENT FOR U.S. MONEY

Premium Doubled Over Week-End As Exchange Rate Rises

Sovereigns Worth $4.85 But No Premium on U.S. Gold

Victoria banks to-day raised from 4 per cent to 8 per cent the premium they pay in Canadian money for United States paper currency. This followed the drop in the Canadian dollar over the week-end.

Persons buying United States dollars to-day had to pay a premium of 11 1/2 per cent. Holders of cheques drawn in United States found themselves being paid by the banks here a net profit of 10 per cent above the face value of the cheques.

PAINT MAKING MUCH CHANGED IN FEW YEARS

Gyro Club Told of New Ideas in Paint Industry By J. C. Pendray

The paint industry underwent more changes in the last fifteen years than were recorded in the previous fifty years, J. C. Pendray, president of the British Columbia Paint Company, to-day told the Gyro Club at the weekly luncheon at the Empress Hotel, in the course of an address on "The Evolution of the Paint Business."

"The days when the workmen mixed paint on the job from linseed oil and white lead have gone for ever. Addition of inert material has been found beneficial in extending the period of protection given by paint to wood-work," Mr. Pendray said. He told of new materials, such as titanium oxide and lithopone, which were making great inroads on white lead for paint purposes, because of their superior character.

HOME RADIATORS

Aluminum was coming to the fore because of its ability to reject heat. "Aluminum or gold paint is the worst you can put on your household radiators. The best color is white, then cream. Other peculiar facts recently discovered by experimenters are that unpainted radiators are the worst of all for throwing out heat, while a bronze or aluminum radiator, if painted white, is as effective as if never painted," Mr. Pendray said.

The manufacture of varnishes was explained, with a review of the manufacture of the expensive New Zealand kauri gum had been replaced by Chinese tung oil. Mr. Pendray said Victoria had been a pioneer in using tung oil for varnish manufacture.

Great interest was made from cotton, would be explosive if a larger percentage of nitric acid were used, as the material would be similar to gun cotton. The chief feature of public interest was "fast drying" of importance to the automobile industry. The ability to dry quickly was a disadvantage where brush work was necessary and where the field of use.

Mr. Pendray showed crystals made of carbolic acid and formaldehyde, which have become of value as a quick drying varnish, under the name of ambersol gum, a new form of the bakelite used in the electrical industry.

To illustrate points in his address Mr. Pendray showed cotton dissolved in turpentine, lacquer varnish and woodwork partially protected by paint, the portion exposed to attack by barnacles and other marine life being eaten away.

Way Harkness entertained with an exhibition of sleight of hand. The club will hold its Christmas bazaar with a number of prizes.

WHEAT MARKET UNSTEADY AND FRACTIONALLY LOWER; AGGREGATE TRADING LIGHT

Winnipeg, Sept. 28.—Lacking outside support and highly nervous, the wheat market closed here today 1/4 cent to 1/2 cent under Saturday's final figures. Export business over the week-end was disappointing. October closed at 53 1/2 cents; November at 54 1/2, December at 54 1/2 and May at 53 1/2.

Pit trade was light in the aggregate. Offerings did not press, but fair quantities of wheat were hedged during the early hours of trading. Deliveries at country elevators over the week-end indicated a resumption of threshing operations in the west.

Foreign exchange emphasized the disturbed state of overseas markets due to the fluctuation in exchange rates and the difficulty in transacting business in wheat. World shipments of wheat and flour decreased sharply last week, but a similar drop in the supplies on passage to Europe largely offset the smaller outward movement.

Demand for cash wheat was fairly good with prices fractionally better than the previous closing differences. Durum traded at half a cent better. Coarse grain trading was indifferent, with prices moving within narrow range.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)

Winnipeg, Sept. 28.—Wheat: Mostly a small trade passing, prices held steady but fractionally lower than the close Saturday, more especially in the October month, where there was a little commission house liquidation in evidence. There were a few odd buying orders drifting in from New York but the volume was small.

There was no export business worked out of this market over the week-end and seaboard reported that foreign interest was rather light, a few loads of Manitoba being reported worked to the continent with France and Antwerp the buyers. It was also reported that big business had been worked on Saturday with indications that about 1,500,000 bushels had been cleaned up. Out of Montreal stocks, the central selling agency merchants of the United Kingdom being the buyers. No prices were given.

In the local cash market there was a fair demand for top grades, and spreads on these grades were 1/2 to 3/4 higher. Canadian visible supply increased 4,012,000 bushels.

The wheat crop of the northern hemisphere, exclusive of Russia and China, is estimated by Washington at 3,178,000,000 bushels, compared with 3,303,000,000 bushels for the same countries last year. On top of this there is a reduction of the production of from 150,000,000 to 200,000,000 bushels.

Winnipeg closed 1/4 to 1/2 lower.

CHICAGO

(By Logan & Bryan)

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Wheat: The market has been sluggish today, opening lower with fairly rally later, opening dip in the late trade when stocks turned easy final figures showing losses of around half a cent compared with Saturday's closing. Liverpool closed unchanged to half lower, with export trade slow owing to unsettled exchange conditions.

Domestic cash trade conditions were not much changed. Minneapolis reported a rather slow demand with mills taking considerable elevator wheat for mixing with hard winters. Visible stocks decreased 1,500,000 bushels. This year there was considerable increase in the wheat at Port Arthur and Port William are about 9,000,000 bushels less than a year ago, the Canadian movement being still much lighter than last year. At the same time, although the country was reported a seller 1/2 morning. Primary arrivals were 2,053,000 bushels vs. 2,887,000 bushels a year ago.

A trading market is indicated, but prefer buying on setbacks.

Corn was easy early, but met fair demand on the dips. Deliveries 134,000 bushels. Receipts were 158 cars estimated. Primary receipts 479,000 bushels vs. 703,000 bushels a year ago. Cash sales 18,000 bushels with country bookings 46,000 bushels. A charter was made for 200,000 bushels of corn to go to Europe.

Weather was favorable. Continue to favor the buying side on the dips. Visible decreased 983,000 bushels.

Rate: Trade narrow. Fair buying on the setbacks. Selling scattered. Cash demand slow with sales of 23,000. Primary arrivals 394,000 bushels vs. 523,000 bushels year ago. Deliveries 10,000 bushels. Visible increased 850,000 bushels.

SS. Empress of Japan Had Good Voyage Here

Arrived Yesterday Morning From the Orient With Passengers and Cargo; Colonel Lindbergh Circled Over Ship in Yokohama on His Way to Tokio From America

After averaging twenty-one and a half knots all the way across the north Pacific from Yokohama, the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Japan docked at Victoria at 7.15 o'clock yesterday morning from ports in the Philippine Islands, China and Japan. She proceeded to Vancouver at 9.15 o'clock and made one of her quickest trips through the Gulf to the mainland port, being fast alongside her dock at 1.45 o'clock.

Capt. Samuel Robinson, R.N.R., master of the liner, reported a good voyage from the Orient. There was a little rough weather after leaving Yokohama and some fog as she approached the West Coast of Vancouver Island on Saturday afternoon. A highlight of the Japan's recent trip to the Orient was when Colonel and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh circled over the big white liner as she lay in Yokohama Harbor. The famous pair were then on their way to Tokyo at the termination of their transpacific flight.

The Japan brought in only a small number of passengers this trip. There were only two in the first cabin party in the tourist, forty-one in the second and 200 in the steerage. A large number of these passengers disembarked here and proceeded yesterday afternoon aboard the steamer Princess Marguerite to Seattle, en route to their various destinations in the United States. Many of the passengers who continued to Vancouver were en route to England and left the inland city yesterday evening by train for Montreal to sail across the Atlantic.

OUTBOUND LIST
When the Empress of Japan sails for the Orient from Victoria on Sunday afternoon, October 10, she will be out a large list, almost 700 passengers being booked already for the voyage. The Honolulu season is now commencing and every sailing of the liner from this port during the coming months will see large numbers of people off to the paradise of the Pacific.

While the ship was at the Rithet yesterday morning, a large amount of raw silk was discharged as soon as the Japan left for Vancouver, the liner Emma Alexander, which had been at the opposite pier on passengers shifted and took aboard the raw silk cargo for San Francisco. The liner will be transferred to a Dollar liner en route through the Panama Canal to New York. It was at noon before the Emma left for Victoria.

JAPANESE BEARS ARRIVE HERE ON WAY TO NEW YORK

Two little brown Japanese bears were among those aboard the liner Empress of Japan when she reached here yesterday morning from the Orient. They traveled across the Pacific from Japan in a special compartment and received expert care during the nine days the ship was at sea.

In charge of Richard E. Migel, wealthy New Yorker, they are routed to Long Island, where they will be placed on the Migel estate with other zoological specimens from all over the world. Smaller than the American bear, they look almost like large dogs, and were great favorites with the passengers coming across, a break in the day's routine being a visit to the bears in their compartments.

Mr. Migel every year takes a trip to some out-of-the-way place and returns with some live specimen for his large estate in the east. They are almost every type of bear there now.

LINDBERGH'S AIDING CHINA FLOOD RELIEF

Extend Flight Plans After Mob Experiences in Kiangsu Province

Nanking, Sept. 28.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is to extend his sphere of operations in behalf of China's millions of dumbly suffering flood refugees.

Dr. Heng Liu, head of the National Flood Relief Commission's health staff, yesterday asked the aviator and his wife to fly over the area adjacent to Hankow to carry out survey work similar to that which has given the commission such valuable information concerning Kiangsu province conditions.

Lindbergh agreed to go. Accompanying the flying colonel and his wife will be Dr. Boric, health expert of the League of Nations, who is visiting in China.

ALONG HAN RIVER
They plan to stop at Wuhi to inspect work going on there before continuing to Hankow, where they expect to spend several days making surveys over Hupien province, especially along the Han river, which has given the commission such valuable information on conditions in the Han River district.

Col. Lindbergh refused to discuss the flying colonel and his wife had made over the Grand Canal district within the last few days. He referred questions to his report on the conditions he made to the commission.

In it he told of many thousands of square miles of land under water, inhabitants living in boats or roof tops, and crowded on rapidly eroding dykes. The report said in part:

"September 21. We made a reconnaissance of the flooded area between the Grand Canal and the Yellow Sea. We found this area extended from Taichow on the south almost to the old bed of the Yellow River on the north, with a total area of 8,000 square miles badly flooded."

"The walled city of Hingwa was badly flooded and the surrounding fields were covered with several feet of water. The nearest ground free from flood water is more than twenty-five miles south of the city. Literally hundreds of small villages throughout the entire area are standing in water, which in many instances covered the roofs. Those inhabitants still remaining are living in small boats moored in the streets. In many instances walls of the houses had collapsed."

"When we flew over this area the wind had whipped up the waves over the fields, and the few remaining dykes were being eroded away rapidly. Thousands of refugees had congregated on dykes lining the Grand Canal, and on an uncompleted road just south of the flood area."

An earlier dispatch says: Charles Lindbergh's experimental flight to take doctors and medicines to flood-stricken centers of northern Kiangsu province failed Saturday because of strong Chinese throngs crying for food rushed the plane.

Declaring the failure "the most heart-rending experience of my career," Col. Lindbergh and his companions sadly returned to Nanking, convinced the only way to place doctors in the flood towns would be to send them with military escorts.

Mrs. Lindbergh did not accompany her husband on Saturday's flight, which took him, Dr. Ling Liu, head of the National Flood Relief Commission, and another doctor.

Most of the people in the mob had never seen a plane before, and some regarded the machine as some mythical, fabulous creature. There arose the cries of women and children and prayers which may have been thanksgiving. Hundreds of hands stretched for the packages visible on the plane's fuselage.

The mob padded to the plane in sampans, tubs, anything floatable, and threatened to sink or at least damage the plane.

Col. Lindbergh sped the motor and maneuvered the plane into a comparatively clear space, then taxied slowly out of the cordon of sampans and finally sped back to his base on Lotus Lake, discouraged by the outcome of his ambitious plan.

MAY HAVE TO SPEND WINTER HEMMED IN BY NORTHERN ICE

which, latest reports said, was having difficult time battling her way out of the Arctic Ocean, on her way to Vancouver after her annual trading visit to the Arctic Coast. There was a possibility, messages said that the Baychimo may have to spend a long winter locked in by the great ice pack of the north. Latest reports said she was forty miles south of Point Barrow.

French Vessel Here Yesterday On Brief Visit

On her first trip to this port, but following in the wake of several of her sisterships, the French liner Wyoming docked at the Ogden Point pier Saturday at midnight, and remained here until noon yesterday before proceeding to Vancouver. She was inbound from France, by way of the Panama Canal and California ports.

During the vessel's stay here the twenty-five California passengers aboard left the ship and took motor drives about the city. These passengers were members of an Atlas tour to the Pacific Northwest, the last of the year. All summer these tours have been coming to Victoria on French, German, Italian and Dutch liners, the call at Victoria being advertised as a special feature in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

While the Wyoming was tied up alongside the pier many Victorians took the opportunity of inspecting the vessel's fine accommodation, which comprises lounge and smoking room, staterooms decorated and furnished, an attractive dining-room and commodious state-rooms with all modern conveniences.

The vessel's stay here is now over. She will return to her berth in Victoria shortly, and will commence her season at Alaska in October. Yarrow's Limited are also doing the work to the Bonneville.

Bonneville Floated Into Drydock; Work Starts on Repairs

Will Give Employment to 100 Men For 18 Days; Princess Norah Nearly Ready

Work started this morning on repairs to the Norwegian motorship Bonneville, damaged a short time ago when she grounded on Miami Reef, at the north end of Thetis Island. The Bonneville shifted from Ogden Point to Esquimalt harbor yesterday, leaving the pier at 9 o'clock in the morning after discharging her large lumber cargo.

She remained alongside the government wharf all night, and first thing this morning was floated into the big drydock. She was high and dry on her blocks at noon, and work started immediately on the repairs which will keep about 100 men busy for eighteen days. The sound of hammers and electric drills and blow torches gave much life to the drydock, which has been rather quiet period during the last few months.

The Princess Norah was floated out of the drydock last week, and is now alongside the outfitting wharf at Yarrow's Limited, across the harbor from the drydock. She will return to her berth in Victoria shortly, and will commence her season at Alaska in October. Yarrow's Limited are also doing the work to the Bonneville.

JAPAN BRINGS VARIED LIST FROM ORIENT

Business Men, Missionaries and World Travelers Crossed Pacific on White Liner

People in all walks of life and on various business and pleasure missions arrived here yesterday morning from the Orient aboard the liner Empress of Japan. There were business men from Europe, North America and Asia; missionaries returning on furlough after work in the mission fields of China and Japan, and pleasure travelers, some of them making leisurely trips around the world.

It was a cosmopolitan group in all classes and the passengers reported a most enjoyable voyage. A special feature of which was the lecture the celebrated explorer, Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews gave one evening in the lounge on his experiences in the Gobi Desert. His lecture was illustrated by slides and proved most fascinating.

A well-known newspaper man aboard the liner this voyage was B. P. Guild, Pacific Coast representative for the Hearst publications. His home is in Los Angeles and he left the ship at midnight, and proceeded yesterday afternoon to Seattle. He was accompanied by Mrs. Guild and together they made the round trip to the Orient aboard the Empress of Japan. Mr. Guild leaves the ship at the various ports and making brief business visits to various publishing houses.

HOLIDAY TRAVELERS
Pleasure travelers aboard the liner included Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Prior of London, who are making a trip around the world; Miss N. V. Drew of Portland, returning from a round trip to the Far East; Keith Bon of New York, also returning from a pleasure trip to China and Japan; Mr. Ricketts and Mrs. Ricketts of Pasadena, also returning from a holiday voyage across the Pacific. Mrs. Ricketts was accompanied by a maid.

Every restaurant tells a story... important to you!

Three Styles:
BAKER'S SOUTHERN STYLE—moist—packed in tin—slightly sweetened—deliciously fresh.
BAKER'S PREMIUM SHRED—in the familiar triple-sealed, easy-open can.
BY THE POUND—the same fresh, full-flavored coconut in bulk.

"All the many tasty dishes that can be made with coconut," say prominent restaurateurs, "take first place in the menu among our men customers." Yet why should your husband have to get his favourite desserts away from home? Such home-made desserts are so much more appetizing.

You'll find extra praise for such tasty dishes if they are made with Baker's coconut. It's always so lusciously fresh, full-flavored and handy. Made in Canada. A-31

YELLOW RACES INCREASE TOPIC OF ADDRESSES

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Sept. 28.—Scientists of the British Association for the Advancement of Science spoke warning words during the week-end of the growing strength of the yellow races. Professor F. A. Crew of Edinburgh said the Chinese were warning and conquering in peaceful migration vast regions in the Pacific. "This migration," Professor Crew said, "is an event which surpasses in importance all the civil wars now being prosecuted in China," for we are being given evidence that of all human stocks the Chinese is perhaps most adaptable. "They seem to breed and develop normally anywhere and everywhere. If this is the case then indeed the Chinese will inherit the earth." Professor Julian Huxley, distinguished biologist, described birth control as a new phenomenon of the first magnitude which was likely to affect all countries in the coming century. The result, even in countries where over-population threatened, in the next 100 years would probably bring danger of depopulation, he declared. Professor A. M. Carr-Saunders of Liverpool said the population of the world had increased four-fold in 300 years. He predicted the races of European descent would stop increasing within three generations.

TORTURED WITH SCIATICA

After taking two boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic) he felt he was better.

"For about ten years," writes Edwin Collins, R. R. No. 1, New Lowell, Ont., "I was tortured with sciatica. I was beginning to give up hope of ever being well, when I saw where a Grand Trunk employee had been relieved of sciatica by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking one box I thought I was a little better, and after taking two boxes I knew I was better, and after I had taken seven boxes I felt I had gotten rid of sciatica. I am now a man near my 77th birthday, and I am never bothered with sciatica now." The iron and other elements in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic) increase the amount of haemoglobin or oxygen-carrying agent in the blood. This has been proven by official hospital tests.

The increased supply of oxygen reacts just as you would expect—it kindles all the vital forces in the body—quickens the appetite, imparts a feeling of well-being, and induces restful sleep. Now that you know the benefits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic) why not do the wise thing? If you have sciatica, rheumatism, lumbago or neuritis, give these tonic pills an opportunity to work their benefits upon you. Consult your neighbors if you wish. More than likely some of them will have been benefited by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. But don't, we beg of you, for your own sake, put the matter off! Be sure to say "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills" so that your druggist will know exactly what you want. 50 cents a package. 21

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

—By AHERN

"TUSH TUSH, JASON, DON'T DISTURB ME! THIS IS THE MOST DIFFICULT PLAY OF THE GAME—AND THAT'S WHY I AM—PREFER PLAYING THESE SHOTS! HARR-R-UMF!"

Jason put the letter down and looked out across the cobble water. The shrieks of some children in charge of a starved English nursemaid on the beach broke into her reverie. A girl in a blue bathing suit, brief and casual as a boy's, rode at a saunter with the grace of a hummingbird. She reread the words, "He has been appointed to some diplomatic post in the Balkans." The girl who had been praying for was to come to pass. She would never see him again. She would put him out of her life as if he had never existed.

But at the thought her heart gave a sickening plunge. She did want to see him just once more, to hear his voice, to touch his hand. Was that too much to ask? She would treasure those memories. She would keep them in her heart until she was old.

Clive came up behind her, very cool and spotted in his white flannels. "Mail from home?"

She gave him the letter and he read it unsmiling.

"Muriel sounds happy, doesn't she?"

"On the crest." Something in his tone touched Liane profoundly. He was staring moodily out to sea.

She sprang up the skirt of her perfect new sports frock hovering in the breeze. She had a white hair crushed down on her bronze hair. In the shadow her eyes looked dark, mischievous. "Let's go places."

"All right. How about the yacht?"

"I'd rather drive. Let's have tea at that Spanish place we saw yesterday."

"Right. I'll order the car around."

Old ladies watched as they swung through the beautiful courtyard. The girl, so young and fresh and utterly charming, the man so debonair. "Lucky, lucky youngsters," moaned the old ladies, thinking of their long dead youth.

THREE FLIERS KILLED

Logansport, Ind., Sept. 28.—Three Logansport men were killed late yesterday when a plane they were flying without the consent of its owner crashed in a field two miles from the city. William Lowden, thirty-three, pilot of the plane; Andrew Nicholas, forty, and Walter King, thirty-eight, were the victims.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggly's Tall Hat

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

Uncle Wiggly could not be called a proud rabbit, though he was always neat and clean and kept his ears nicely combed. Yet many of the animal people in Woodland called Mr. Longears "proud," because he sometimes wore a tall, silk hat like the rabbit gentlemen in England.

In fact, in one part of England, at a school called Eton, even little rabbit boys wear tall, silk hats just like the rabbit gentlemen and yet no one calls them proud. The little rabbit boys at Eton have worn these tall, silk hats for many years.

"And as I have worn my silk hat for many years, I think some of my friends might stop calling me proud," said Mr. Longears. He said this one day as he hopped past a kennel where a cross old dog lived. And Uncle Wiggly heard the dog bark to his wife:

"There goes that proud rabbit in his tall, silk hat."

"It really isn't fair," thought Uncle Wiggly as he hopped along after hearing what the cross dog said. I suppose the dog got to be cross because he lived at the cross roads; that is a place where one road crossed another. "No, it really isn't fair," said the bunny uncle to himself. "I try to be happy and good and I don't make trouble for others, and I don't like to be called proud. It isn't as if I wore my tall, silk hat every day. I only wear it on special days and this is one."

He filled his hat

This was quite true. Uncle Wiggly was very fond of adventure, and every day he went out to look for one. For the past week he had gone out every day, wearing an old hat or an old cap, to look for an adventure, but none could be found. Then Nurse Jane said to him:

"Why don't you wear your tall, silk hat?"

"What for?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"It might change your luck," said Nurse Jane. "You've had a bunch of feathers on your hat. But don't be worried about that. The muskrat lady housekeeper wasn't going to tickle Uncle Wiggly with the feathers. She was just going to dust the radio."

"Change my luck?" asked Uncle Wiggly, questioning like. "What do you mean, Janie?"

"I mean," squeaked Miss Fuzzy Wuzzum, "that you have had no luck finding adventures while you wore your old hat and old cap. But if you put on your tall, shiny, silk hat, you might find a jolly good adventure."

"It's worth trying! I'll do it!" said Uncle Wiggly.

Right away he hopped up to his hat, got down off the shelf the hat that looked like a piece cut from the stove pipe and off he hopped.

"But I don't seem to be having very good luck," Uncle Wiggly said to himself as he passed the dog's kennel and heard what the cross, barking chas said about being proud. "I would rather not find any adventures than have this cross dog call me proud."

"I wonder," went on Uncle Wiggly, "how I can make that dog believe I am not proud though I do wear a tall hat?"

Thinking about this and about other things, Uncle Wiggly hopped over the fields and through the woods until, after a while, he came to a dark and lonesome place and there he stopped.

"If ever there was a good place for an adventure, this is it," said the rabbit gentleman in a low voice. And just then, all of a sudden, a voice was heard, saying:

"Yea, I'm going to tell him so to his face! I'll tell him just what I think of him! I'll take some of the pride out of him!"

"Oo, Kimer!" murmured a gentle voice, and looking through the bushes, Uncle Wiggly saw the cross dog and his wife. The cross dog had followed the rabbit through the woods to make fun of his tall, silk hat and call Uncle Wiggly proud.

Just then the cross dog opened his mouth to bark mean words at the rabbit, but instead of calling Mr. Longears "proud," the dog suddenly began to howl:

"Ouch! Oh, dear! Oh, what a pain!"

"What's the matter, Kimer?" asked his wife.

"Oh, I stepped on a sharp stone and out my foot!" howled the dog.

"Dear me! That's too bad!" said Uncle Wiggly, quickly hopping out from behind a bush. "Just sit down, Mr. Dog, and I'll get you some water from the spring so you can bathe your cut paw and make it well."

"What can you get water in?" growled the dog. "You have no pail."

"I'll bring you some water in my tall, silk hat," said Uncle Wiggly with a laugh. Taking his shiny hat from his head, the rabbit filled it with water. I mean he filled his hat. Then he gave the cross dog some water to drink and some for his sore paw and made it well. And the dog looked shyly at Mr. Longears and softly barked:

"I'm sorry I called you proud. I can see that you aren't a bit."

Then the two became good friends, the dog was no longer cross and if the seasons will stop cutting the thread each time it gets in the eye of the needle, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly's sweet tea.

FOUR DIE IN FIRE

New York, Sept. 28.—Four persons lost their lives in a fire which early today swept through a seven-story east side tenement and left twenty-six families homeless. The victims were Mrs. Regina Ellakin, forty-five, and Pauline, her daughter, ten; Christie De Blasi, fifteen, and her sister, Mary, thirteen.

Some day you'll have an old man to support!

SUPPOSE there came a message to you to-night—from your father—saying, "Son, I am poor and old and helpless. It will cost 50 cents a day to care for me. Will you do it?"

Would your answer be, "I can't afford it?"

Some day, if you live, you will have an old man to support—YOURSELF.

It will cost less than 50 cents a day now to provide for him.

Is your answer still, "I can't afford it?"

Let a Manufacturers Life policy provide for the old man you may be some day.

Not Only in Darkest Africa but Everywhere
Women Speak a Language of Their Own That No Man Understands—Dorothy Dix Translates a Few Current Feminine Expressions

TRAVELERS tell us that somewhere in darkest Africa there is a tribe whose women speak a language peculiar to themselves and that the men do not understand. Huh. That's nothing. Women everywhere speak a language of their own, and if Mrs. Noah Webster had got out a feminine dictionary it would run something like this:

Angel child—One's own baby.
Brat—Your child.
Malignant mischief—When your boy throws a ball that breaks a window.
Initiative—When my child scratches a picture on your best mahogany with a pin.
Economy—Doing without something you want and need in order to buy something that you do not want or need.

Vargain—Anything, no matter how useless, that is marked down from $2 to $1.98.

Nerves—An alibi for high temper and lack of self-control.

Invalidism—A blanket excuse that covers peevishness, laziness and slovenliness, and that enables one to do those things which one wishes to do and to leave undone those things that one does not want to do.

Urgical operation—Topic for monologue that goes big with one's self.

Good wife—A woman who worries continually over her husband and children and nags them about what they eat and wear and where they are going and what they are going to do after they get there.

Good husband—A man who takes his wife out to places of amusement and tells her that she grows younger and more beautiful every year.

Good child—One who has no will of its own whatever and lets mothers pick out its wife or husband for it and run its home after its mother.

Good in-law—A mythical creature like the Phoenix or the Dodo.

Mother-in-law—A hereditary foe.

Husband's friend—A bride's danger. One to whom you serve cold shoulder and pickled tongue.

Intimate friend—One to whom you tell secrets that you repent of telling and who broadcasts your family scandals.

Nice woman—One who is homely and dull and does not know how to dress, but who gives good parties.

Nice girl—A term of opprobrium only applied to girls who lack good looks, pep and sex appeal. The sort of a girl a mother wants her son to marry if she has plenty of money.

Scholar—A male individual possessing superhuman cleverness and adroitness. A man who arouses the matchmaking instinct of every woman who sees him.

Adventure—The girl one's son falls in love with.

Signifying hussy—Any young and good-looking woman who works for one's husband.

Finity—Any man who flatters you after you are forty.

Idle age—Always ten years more than the age you are.

Complexion—Circumventing nature and refusing to be the kind of a woman God made you.

Gift shop—Heaven's best gift to woman. A miracle shrine.

Form—Stopping other people from doing the things you do not like to do yourself.

Comfortable income—About twice as much income as you ever have.

Tomobile—The staff of life.

Husband—A bill-payer and a sparring partner. A convenience to have around the house the first of the month.

Marriage—Something that you will never be happy until you try and then are not crazy about after you do try it. The lemon pie of your life that looks sweet and gooey, but is so sour it sets your teeth on edge.

Divorce—Jumping out of the frying pan into the fire. Giving up a good home and a good support and a philandering husband for no husband and the necessity of supporting yourself.

Tears—The water way to whatever you want.

Race Horses

India is believed to have been the home of ancestors of the Arabian horse; but horses of this type did not become famous until they were found in Arabia.

"Persimmon," a winner of British Derby.

English crusaders returned from wars against "the Turks," bringing Arabian horses home with them. And other Arabian horses found in later times were among the best of English race horses. Arabian race horses also are partly Arabian blood.

Sometimes I wonder why so many men grow excited over horse racing. Automobiles, motorcycles and planes speed so much faster than horses that there is no comparison. Horses still attract thousands when they take part in racing.

The Derby (pronounced darby) is one of the leading sporting events in England each year. Not only do Englishmen watch the event for the sake of the race; they also wait eagerly to learn who will win money through betting and gambling pools. Vast sums change hands. The holder of a "lucky ticket" may win hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Race horses often win large prizes for their masters. An English mare, named "Apology," won $70,000 in prize money—she needed to offer no apology for that!

Another mare, known as La Fleche and owned by a Frenchman, won many races and ran second in the English Derby. Her winning during a single season were $125,000.

A Kentucky horse, Man o' War, was sold at the age of a year to a Pennsylvania man for $5,000. Within the next three years Man o' War won prizes amounting to $249,625.

Race horses often have strange names. Here are some horses which have broken records: Papyrus, Iron Mask, Handy Mandy, Just Right, Cherry Pie, Odd Eyes, Baby Bill, Mad Hatter and Peter Pan.

Man o' War ran a mile in 1 minute 35 4-8 seconds. Cherry Pie broke this record in 1923, running a mile two-fifths of a second faster.

Perhaps you have heard of the two horses which were just exactly even at the finish of the race, except that one of them stuck out his tongue and won the race.

GANDHI VISITS LANCASHIRE

Canadian Press

heroine, Lancashire, Eng., Sept. 28.—Gandhi pressed its appeal to the Nationalist boycott on British goods and help Lancashire's industry.

Mahatma, representing the nationalists at the India Round-Table conference in London, replied: "If Britain grants India her freedom, she takes her an equal partner in the family of nations, then I will be willing to advocate a prohibition on all foreign imports, except those of Great Britain, of which would take the amount needed for her own productive capacity, things as prices, shipping, etc., equitable."

Gandhi had already entered on his weekly day of silence as he took a train back to London yesterday evening.

The frail Indian leader said that if a general election was called he would be unwilling to remain in London unless the ministers were ready to make a decision and not mark time. There had been no progress thus far, he said, toward settlement of the Indian problem at the Round-Table Conference, although the situation was not retrogressive.

HAVANA CHINESE WANT WAR WITH THE JAPANESE

Havana, Sept. 28.—Several thousand of Havana's Chinese colony, said to be the largest of any city in the world outside of China, gathered yesterday in and around their theatre and protested Japanese occupation of Manchuria.

Leaders of Chinese societies spoke, and at the conclusion it was agreed to cable China's President, at Nanking, asking an immediate declaration of war on Japan.

MURDER PLAY AT CAPITOL IS THRILLER

"Murder By the Clock" Is Entertaining and Thrilling Picture of Big City Crime

Thrills—tingly, spine-chilling thrills;
thrills that make one gasp, and thrills
that make the head spin.
This and more is the fare at the Capitol Theatre, where that creepy thrill-and-chill murder mystery play, "Murder By the Clock" opened this afternoon to audiences who were evidently much pleased.

"Murder By the Clock" is based on a novel plot idea filmed from the original story by Rufus King. The idea is that Herbert Endicott dies twice in the same evening. With this as the hub of the action-interest and with a great number of pulse-hastening incidents
as the spokes, "Murder By the Clock" whirls swiftly along at a breath-taking speed, holding the interest till the very last moment when the culprit who has caused all the mayhem and killing is discovered by the detective-hero.

Paramount has wisely changed the story from Rufus King's original. The culprit of the book is not the culprit of the screen version. Therefore those who have read the book will have to begin all over again and see the picture
—for the film presents a new "guilty one."

A most interesting plot revolves about "The Isle O' Dreams." The play is in the time of the Napoleonic wars and the locale is a picturesque island off the coast of Ireland. The play is a costume one and some beautiful old-time costumes will be seen on the stage at the theatre this week. The ladies attired in dainty crinolines and ruffles and the men in satin knee breeches and frock coats. The story concerns a war spy, the brother of the heroine. He returns to his peaceful home on the quiet island and causes quite a stir. The play revolves around this action.

With the splendid cast assembled
"The Isle O' Dreams" should prove most popular in Victoria. Some of the finest stock players available on the Coast are included in the cast.

COLISEUM THEATRE

Douglas MacLean, Radio Pictures' new associate producer, established a record with his first studio assignment—the supervision of "Cracked Nuts," a comedy now at the Coliseum Theatre.
The picture, an unusually lavish production, was completed two days before schedule—in spite of the fact that principals of the cast were ill a total of twelve working days.

Wheeler was hors de combat for three days; Robert Woolsey three days, and Dorothy Lee, five days. Colds were the trouble—and the microphone is not sympathetic with hoarse voices.

"It was a matter of juggling the sets and players," explained MacLean. "I learned economy and short cuts in production many years ago when I produced my own."

"Tired, too, the cast is a great gang
of trouper—willing and ready to cooperate."

"Cracked Nuts" has a cast of comedy favorites including Bert Wheeler,
Robert Woolsey, Dorothy Lee, Erna
May Oliver, Leni Stengel, Ben Turpin,
Stanley Fields, Harvey Clark, Boris
Karloff and Marshall Duffield.

Two Couples Still In Walkathon Here

After 2,176 hours of continuous motion in the great endurance marathon
now in progress at the Canada Stadium, two couples are striving to pass the world's amateur record set in Portland early this year, and also to determine a winner in this contest. The contest is now a battle between the married couple from Sidney, and the composite couple from Victoria. New and more stringent rules are being inaugurated and put into effect without warning, to bring this contest to a finish. This evening there will be a big supporting programme of vaudeville in addition to a special programme by the contestants on the floor.

DOMINION THEATRE

"Young As You Feel" is one play I never did get to see so I had to play it myself to find out what it was all about. Will Rogers remarked after completing his latest Fox comedy drama by that title, which is now playing at the Dominion Theatre.
"They called it 'Father And the Boys' when William H. Crane first played it on the stage, but you know we do not mind a little thing like getting a new title when we make a picture of a famous play," he added.
"I was in vaudeville when the play first appeared. My wife saw it and said, 'Well, there's a great play and I want you to go and see it.' Somehow I never got the time. And I wanted like sixty to see it, too. Crane was a great friend of mine in those days, and I liked George Ade, the author, as well as any writer I ever knew."

"Crane toured the country in the play, and later he brought it back for a successful revival; but it seemed like I was never in the town where it was showing."

YOUNG TENOR COMING HERE

Dimitri Onofrei to Be Heard
Saturday at Shrine Hall in Famous Operatic Roles

Dimitri Onofrei, the young tenor of the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company, will be heard here on Saturday in the Shrine Auditorium in operatic roles.

He has sung the leading roles in more than thirty grand operas in tours that have taken him nearly all over the world, particularly in Europe and North and South America. In the United States alone he has sung in more than 300 cities.

His activities last season included operatic appearances with the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company, the Detroit Civic Opera and the French-Italian Opera Company of Montreal, with which he made a tour of Canada.

He also gave many recitals in the east and middle west.

Of his recent appearance with the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company in "Cavalleria Rusticana," the music critic of The Philadelphia Public Ledger wrote: "Dimitri Onofrei brought to the role of Turiddu, youth, good looks and an excellent voice. His acting was of the highest order and his voice was fresh and of fine quality, with excellent intonation."

Evelyn Brent Stars In Stirring Picture At Columbia Theatre

"Madonna of the Streets"
Shows Brilliant Star in One of Her Finest Roles

A great favorite with Victoria audiences is now appearing at the Columbia Theatre in her latest picture, "Madonna of the Streets," the Columbia film adapted from W. B. Maxwell's story, "The Ragged Messenger." It is none other than Evelyn Brent, the aluring and magnetic personality of the screen.

The story is an excellent vehicle for her. It is a dramatic story of love and reformation unfolded in the colorful locale of the Barbary Coast of San Francisco. Evelyn Brent plays the designing woman of the world who goes through an amazing change of character when she falls in love with man who patterns his life along golden rule. Miss Brent has an herself supreme in the interpretation of this sophisticated woman who men with her haughty glance.

"Madonna of the Streets" she is all a slight variation in portrayal.
story permits her to be transfor-from this type of woman to one is willing to humble herself and hard for the man she loves.
